Memorabilia

Foreword

Now that we have reached the time of our commencement, we are both happy and at the same time, sad, that our days as undergraduates at Clinton High School are over. We are happy that we have successfully completed our courses, and we are sad in the knowledge that after graduation, we shall never be united as a class again. All that is left to us are memories of the school, teachers, and our classmates. This Memorabilia has been written for the purpose of preserving these memories through the years.

The members of the Class Book Staff have labored hard and diligently to get this book to the press, and it is due to the hearty cooperation of Mr. Dyer, the Staff, the class, and all whom we have asked for help that this book has finally been completed.

If in the future you ever chance to look again at this book and derive any degree of enjoyment from it, we shall feel that our efforts have been amply rewarded, and that our work was not in vain in attempting to recall happy moments of our four years in Clinton High.

To the Faculty

Who, in their knowledge and wisdom have contributed so much to the basis of our characters and who were ever so willing to extend a guiding hand when we needed help, we most heartily convey our appreciation.

Unsurpassed as true friends and advisors, during the four years we have been with them we have benefited by their high ideals and noble standards.

May we ever be true disciples of their principles and teachings. May we ever carry with us the knowledge of right which they have labored so long and diligently to instill in us. May we always be led by their lamp of guidance on our journey through life.

Memories

It's a dear old school, with memories sweet,
Sweet memories which one can ne'er repeat;
It has held us close for four short years,
And now we are leaving, our eyes filled with tears
Into the great space, which they call the world
We shall go onward, our banners unfurled.
Up the great pathway, so narrow and long,
"Better to best" shall be our song.
So now, my classmates, the parting hour has come;
It shall be greeted with sad tears by some,
And others, with laughter, will sing their adieu,
But we'll all meet again, another day, too.

R. W. G. '35.

Opportunity

Master of human destiny am I;
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate.
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death. But those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore,
I answer not and I return no more.

What could be more appropriate than to have Roger come first in our Class Book, for he is certainly well liked by all pupils. As a matter of fact, Roger is what we might term the perfect example of what the High School student should be, for he is quiet and considerate of all and never gets into the difficulties that the rest of us seem to be always tumbling into.

As far as studies go—Roger never seemed to be in trouble for he always managed to get by easily. The teachers never had to worry about this boy; for he always had his lessons well prepared.

Roger belonged to most of the clubs open to Seniors and took an active part in them. As a member of our varsity Tennis team during his Junior year he won his varsity letter in that sport.

We do not know what Roger intends to do in the future but undoubtedly he has his college all picked out. We know that he will be a success in whatever line of work or study he takes up because of his sterling characteristics. Good luck, Roger, from all of 1935.

"Ducky" hails from the hill and is very seldom seen without "Murph" or "Ruthie."

She says that her favorite subject is Chemistry, but she does not tell us the reason for that choice, unless it is because her associations in that class are very enjoyable. At any rate we don't think that it's the subject itself. But please don't get the idea that "Ducky" doesn't like studies, for she seems to get along very nicely without any monthly reminders from the office.

She enjoys all sports—but it appears that it isn't always High School sporting events that seem to get her interest. She has been a very regular attendant at basketball games in the Armory on Friday nights, but we are not quite sure whether it is the sport itself or some other attraction.

Ann plans to take up hair dressing and we are sure that success will follow her. The class of "35" wishes her the best of luck in her chosen profession.

Do you need an introduction? I guess not, for you would know "Nino" anywhere. (He is self-confident to a certain degree, and is always endeavoring to better himself and thus gain for himself a host of friends in good old C. H. S.)

"Nino" was always known to voice his opinion on any subject, and to stick by it until otherwise convinced. Besides his studies he always found time to interest himself in athletics.

"Nino" intends to enter some college, although he hasn't named the one, and the class of "35" wishes him good luck and success wherever he may go.

And now as you glance at this page you see a fellow that has developed into one of our most dignified seniors. He is a boy of action and gets his exercise in finding how much noise he can make and how many things he can wreck making it.

He goes in for mathematics in a big way, and is capable of doing "almost" any problem in algebra, arithmetic or combinations of both. It is a fact that he is going to tackle Einstein's theory on the fourth dimension at Worcester Tech, after his graduation from these great halls of knowledge.

Although he did not go out for varsity competition, baseball, football, and hockey are right up his alley. He excels in swimming also, being a senior life saver, and hunting is one of his hobbies.

Best of luck from '35, "Art."

Next on the list of notables we have a boy who is very popular among his classmates, not only because of his great personality, but also because of his athletic inclinations.

He may often be seen down at the Church St. Stadium going through the paces of whatever sport is then in vogue, with "Ang," "Ted," and the rest of the "Unbeatable" athletic teams of that section.

As a back on our varsity football team for the past two years, "Art" has shown his heels to many a would-be tackler. We well remember the game two years ago in Leominster when he almost got away for a touchdown after a long run, the longest of that game.

"Art" is undecided as to his future career but we know that in whatever he chooses he will do well.

Best of luck, "Art," from '35.

Here you see Vera, one of our most cheerful and ever ready classmates, who has always finished all that she has started, to the best of her ability. We consider that quality an excellent one. Her cheerful smile and greeting is another good quality, for no matter where you see her, she will greet you with that winsome smile.

Vera has gained many friendships in C. H. S. during her stay here, and her spirit of friendliness is well known to all. Her smile just seems to invite friendships and she possesses the charm to perpetuate them afterward.

Vera is known as a very quiet resourceful person even though she took part in many activities and socials. While she does not seem to care for H. S. athletics, we know that it is because her tastes are of a different variety, such as bouncing up and down on the back of a cantering steed.

Although we have not succeeded in probing into her future hopes and ambitions, we can be certain that she will pick a profession or vocation that will suit her exactly. The class unites in wishing you good luck in your future career, Vera.

RUTH EVANGELINE BAHOSH

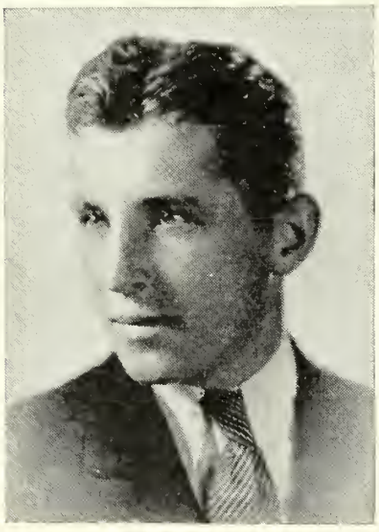
"Variety's the spice of life
That gives it all its flavor."

MARY TERESA BALL

College Course

Minstrel Show 1, 2; Junior Prom Committee; Senior Reception Committee; Senior Show Committee; History Circle; E. K. Club; Class Secretary 2.



"I will find a way or make one!"

JOSEPH BEDNARCZK

"Joe"

Commercial Course

Interclass Football 1, 2, 3; Interclass Baseball 1, 2, 3; Varsity Hockey 3, 4; Varsity Baseball 4; Varsity Football 4; History Circle; Tau Sigma; Junior Prom Committee; Junior Marshal; Senior Show Committee.

In her studies, "Ruthy" has always succeeded, and the same spirit of progressiveness and attentiveness that was shown in C. H. S. will aid her to succeed in whatever she undertakes in the future.

"Ruthie" attended all high school functions regularly, and always seemed to enjoy herself at them. She has made scores of friends while in High School, and we know that the qualities that have endeared her to her classmates will continue to win many lasting friendships in the years to come.

Ruth is undecided as to her future plans. She has considered many fields, but can't seem to make up her mind as to which is to be "the one." We think, however, that away back in "Ruthie's" mind is the desire to be a pharmacist, and it would not surprise us to find "Ruthie" filling out prescriptions at some future date.

The Class of '35 gives her its sincerest wishes for success.

"Better late than never" is Mary's motto, but we guess it's because Clark Street is so far from the High School. She is a girl whom we all know and admire for her good humor, kindness, and generosity.

Mary always manages to do as well in her studies as she does in everything else (?). She never fails to get the right side of a joke even when it's on herself, a characteristic which commands respect in anyone.

Mary is very active in our many clubs, and surely does her part to make them a success. Her popularity was proven when as a Sophomore, she was elected to be Secretary of our class.

Mary intends to enter the portals of Massachusetts General Hospital, and we're sure she'll emerge a most capable nurse. Best of luck to you Mary, from '35.

Now, you are coming to one of Clinton High's real students, in more ways than one. Joseph Bednarczk, otherwise known to his classmates as "Joe." "Joe" has had a lot of fun here in school but also has been of the serious type when circumstances required it.

His scholastic standing in High School is among the best. He has made quite a record here, a record that should be followed by those who wish to aspire to greatness. In football, "Joe" was one of Clinton's greatest ends and when one of the opposing backs tried to circle it, well—he thought twice afterwards. In baseball, "Joe," although he went out for short-stop, patrolled the center field garden like a veteran. He was also a menace to opposing twirlers. Special mention should be made of his hockey ability produced in Clinton High in late years.

"Joe's" future is undetermined but wherever he goes, he may be sure that the well wishes of '35 go with him.

"And grasps the skirts of happy chance and breasts the blows of circumstance."

MARY RITA BENEDETTO

"Benny"

Memorabilia

We now focus our attention on one of the sunniest girls in our class of '35. But don't let that sweet smile disillusion you, because our Mary is just as mischievous as any of our merry-makers, and wherever there's fun, there's Mary.

"Benny" never missed a good time if she could help it, but neither did she ever get below the grade. A party would never be complete without the hilarious laughter of this young damsel. And who ever saw Mary at any of our social functions when she wasn't enjoying herself to the utmost?

Mary is undecided as to what her future will be, but we know that whatever she takes up, she will be a success. The class of '35 wishes her the best of luck.

Look out girls, here comes "Berry" up the corridor with his ready smile beaming on his face. "Sam" was one member of the Tau Sigma who was always trying to show what Mr. Gordon preached at his "Manners Club."

He was a thorn in the side of Mr. McGrail in the History class with his fantastic questions, and he provided most of the fun in that class. Who will forget his signing of one of his themes with, "this is the Berries," and the correction written in by the teacher?

As a member of the 1934 Track Team, "Sam" ran in the mile—and made his letter in that sport.

Although he is nonchalant as a rule, his smile and humorous disposition have won him many friends of both sexes.

He has not revealed to us his future ambition, but people with a disposition like "Sam's" invariably make a success of life. Good luck, "Sam," from "35."

Let us focus our attention on one of the serious members of our class of '35. Nevertheless, her seriousness does not detract from her sweet, generous, and kind manner and although she never attended many socials, when she did she always seemed to be enjoying herself.

"Polly" has taken the Commercial Course and by the enthusiasm with which she studied her "Stenog" at recess, we presume that her future endeavors will be in that field.

Whether she has inclination toward bookkeeping, secretarial work, or stenography, we don't know for she has not made her future plans known to us, but anyway, we know what to expect from someone with as much determination and optimism as she has.

Although her smile is capable of conquering many "Romeo's", we know that it is far from her earnest ambition or thoughts.

Oceans of luck from dear old '35.

And now we come to Carl Boyce—better known to the boys as "Ben." Although a resident of the big city of Berlin, "Ben" took an active part in all school activities. He was a familiar sight at all school shows, athletic events, and affairs of a similar nature, and was especially active during recess in Room 7. (Ask Mr. Dyer).

Although Carl did not participate in sports while in High School, it was not of his own choosing, as living out of town prevented his attendance at practice. There is no doubt, however, that "Ben" had the ability to "make" our baseball and football teams, as his participation in these sports and also in basketball for both Berlin and Acre teams, proved him to be an accomplished athlete.

We have not been informed as to Carl's future plans, but whatever they might be, we are sure that he will be a success, and the well wishes of the class of 1935 follow him wherever he goes.

Quiet?—Well! Not exactly—Wild?—No, not that either. "Franny" is just a regular fellow, who seems to have a smile for everyone—and who seems to enjoy life to the utmost. He has made many friends in all classes and, needless to say, of both sexes, during his stay in High School.

If medals were awarded for faithful attendance at our athletic games —"Franny" would have a lot of them—for he rarely missed a contest of any kind—from horseshoes to whatever "the gang" on West Street call their games.

While we do not quite understand what is meant by his pretended love for music, still it is rumored that "Franny" has leanings toward music. We who know that he has never attempted any instrument other than a radio can't see any connection—but it might be explained some day.

"Franny" is another member of our class who has not divulged his future ambitions. But like all the rest, there is no doubt but that some day the wagon will come along that he can hitch to a star. Success, and lots of it, "Franny" from your pals in '35.

It has been many years since there have been any students from Berlin in the graduating class of Clinton High School. This year there are three, one of whom is May Bridges.

May has taken the commercial course, has made good in her classes, and is well liked by her classmates. She has taken part in several of the High School shows, and she is a member of the History Circle, where she also acts as secretary. Outside of stenography and bookkeeping her chief hobby is "stone" (?).

As one of the typists of the Class Book, May has worked hard to make it a success.

May has not yet decided where she will continue her education, but one thing we all know—she will be a fine secretary for some business man in the near future.

Lots of success, May—from '35.

Memorabilia

If you were to seek in the ranks of "35" the perfect blend of gentleman and scholar blessed with charm of a conscientious worker, "Gink" would be your man.

"Gink's" athletic ability has brought many more friends close to him, but although "Gink" is kept busy with sports he still finds time to get his studies done well.

As president of the Tau Sigma he has shown great ability as a leader. His unfailing tact, and consistently courteous and impartial administration of club affairs have made us proud of our choice.

He hasn't decided what he's going to do next year but whatever it is the class of "35" wishes him the best of luck.

Look who's here!! This charming young lady, though studious, is also classed in the mischievous rank. "Vi" is usually seen on Thursdays and Saturdays behind the counters of one of our busiest stores.

One may always see Viola pouring over her Stenog. IV, usually the first thing Monday morning. We wonder why!!

"Vi" is usually seen at all our school functions, and by the way, maybe she isn't popular with the stronger sex.

Viola has not yet decided upon a career, but we know that whatever she undertakes, it will be a success.

Best wishes from the class of "35," "Vi."

This is radio station C. H. S. announcing the winner of the "Personality Smile" Contest—and it is Kathleen, known to her host of friends as "Kay."

"Kay" has many admirers, but she seems to prefer a certain redhead. She was a great aid to the Athletic Council selling tickets at the gate during the football season. Who could pass by that winning smile without looking twice (and incidentally stopping to buy a ticket).

Studies didn't bother "Kay" any, but then why should they? She always "got by." "Kay's" friends who love her for her sunny disposition and good-naturedness, wish her continual success at Forsythe where she intends to further her education.

Best of luck from "35".

"They laugh that win."

Memorabilia

Stop! By all means. Look, and listen, if you will, and you will be aware of the presence of the young lady pictured across, who hails from the lofty peaks of the ever-famous Burditt Hill.

Kathryn has a capacity for diligent work, is a conscientious student, has a courteous and polite demeanor, a certain timidity which has given place to a quiet assurance—is there any quality lacking to make the ideal young lady?

Kathryn has faithfully fulfilled the offices of Secretary of the French Club and is one of the Assistant Editors-in-Chief of the Class Book, but was never too busy to join in one of those gay little riots which often materialized in the back of the Hall.

Kathryn was a good friend, a good student, a good sport—but wait, she's blushing, so we'll just wish you good luck, Kathryn, at Worcester State Teachers' College next Fall.

Here is Mary who is well known for her lovely charm and disposition. Mary looks to be rather a quiet little girl but when you know her you'll change your opinion of her right away.

One can see her making Chestnut Hill on high while the town clock is merrily chiming eight on any school day.

If you hear a low chuckle that sounds like a laugh and then again doesn't you'll know "Peaches" is at it again with her pal "Strunzie" up in the hall. "Cassie" has a weakness for swimming and she can always be found at Clamshell Pond during the swimming months with the gang.

"Peaches" goes for dancing in a big way, whenever there is a dance being held "Peaches" will be there, without doubt, with her pals "Strunzie" and Helen.

Her plans are to become a nurse and we know that her good nature and pleasing personality will be a great asset to her. Good luck, "Cassie," the best wishes of "35" are with you.

"Bill" is one of the most popular of all fellows in the class of '35. And who wouldn't go daffy over a fellow with the athletic ability that "Bill" has?

The song "You've Gotta Be A Football Hero" certainly fits him to perfection, for he was one of the most colorful figures on Clinton High's gridiron during his stay in school. Ripping through the opponent's forward wall for gain after gain, and with the responsibility of calling his team's signals, "Bill" was the mainstay of the team.

In baseball he was not far behind for he wielded a heavy bludgeon and proved to have no equal around the hot corner.

Bill was elected president of the Senior Class, a position that could not be filled better by any one else.

"Bill" has his eye on West Point and the rest of the schools may go green with envy for not being able to acquire his services. At any rate, "Bill," the best of luck from '35.

Don't let Nellie's demure appearance deceive you—it doesn't mean a thing. Nellie is a great sport and does not enter a thing half-heartedly. Anyone who has seen her play ball for the Seniors on Fuller's Field will sanction that.

To encounter "Nell's" cheery smile is enough to brighten the darkest day, and her smiling disposition has added to the silver lining on many a dark cloud.

As to the future, Nellie keeps rather reticent, but confidentially we think she may decide on a business career.

However, to whatever "Nell" turns, we know that she can never be anything but a success. Best of luck, Nellie, from '35.

Refined, unaffected, reserved, with a sense of humor—one rarely finds them combined in one person. Especially the sense of humor. As a member of "the gang" in the back of the hall, she had many vouches for her infallible ability to produce a humorous enlargement on the topic of discussion.

Marie is one of our intellectuals and is certainly widely read. She is one of the most versatile members of the class. Her ability as a writer was evidenced by Mr. McGrail's comments on her weekly themes. She is an accomplished pianist and a member of several clubs. She was an editor of the Class Book, Vice-President of the class her Sophomore year, and was the only girl taking Solid and Trig.

Marie's ready wit was foremost in her Vergil class, and it certainly was a treat to hear her and her colleague, "Mickey," spurring on one of our best known arguers.

Marie was universally well liked, especially for her consideration of others. Marie certainly knew just what to do and say on every occasion, and was noted for her knowledge of "what's what."

Marie is registered at Wellesley for the coming year. Best of luck, Marie.

"Joe" did not start his high school career in Clinton or with this year's graduating class. He joined our class in the middle of the third quarter and during his brief association with the members of the class he has made friends with all with whom he has come into contact.

"Joe" has shown a particular aptitude toward history, being a member of the History Circle, and taking an active part in all its activities, such as debates, trials, and affairs of like nature.

As for athletics, "Joe" was ineligible to participate in varsity athletics but he did take an active hand in interclass sports. "Joe's" favorite occupation was bicycle riding. Any fine afternoon "Joe" was a familiar sight riding around this fair city on his velocipede.

"Joe's" plans for the future are unknown to us but the class of '35 feels assured of his success and extends its best wishes to "Joe" for the future.

Memorabilia

Now the spotlight will focus on one of the active members of our class, a girl who has proved to her classmates to be a fine all around sport.

Mary is an ardent football fan and could always be seen at all games rooting lustily for the Clinton team.

Being in the same chemistry class with Mary, we often wondered, as did Mr. Dyer, at the sudden outbursts of laughter that resulted after a consulation with "Betty" Ramig, who sat beside her. Although Mr. Dyer often asked her for her reasons for laughing, he never was successful in getting them. We think that chemistry was "Mary's" favorite subject, at least she enjoyed that class the most.

It is Mary's ambition to become a nurse and we can picture her dressed in the white uniform of that profession, capably and kindly administering to the patients of some hospital.

Best of luck, Mary, from '35 and may the cases come thick and fast, after you receive your R. N.

Harriet's name is very familiar to any one who even glances at the testimonial list in the Item—for who could miss that long list of "testies" credited to her name?

Harriet's many disputes as to what was what in "Stenog" seems to indicate that she has a strong leaning toward "secretarying", and we shouldn't be surprised to find, in later years, that she has become a capable business woman, for with Harriet's ability any office would be placed on a higher standard of efficiency.

Harriet doesn't say much about her future, but we still maintain she could choose nothing more suitable than a business career.

Upon whatever field of endeavor Harriet decides, she carries with her the best wishes for success from '35.

Let us now present "Cap", one of the social lights of the school. "Cap's" cordial smile and frank, sincere personality have made her much sought after, and she always proves a delightful and interesting companion. No social gathering would be complete without Helen, who is always present and is ever surrounded by a group of would-be dancing partners.

Helen is also a tennis enthusiast, and spends much time in this pursuit. "Bill" Tilden and others of his class are proficient with only one hand; Helen has it all over them—she is proficient with either. Just at present "Cap" is engaged in mastering the intricacies of setting a new "Chevy" in motion.

We wonder what big attraction takes Helen to the vicinity of Boston so often. It can't be entirely a love of travel. Of course there are shows, etc., in Winter, but—

"Cap" has shown evidence of real artistic ability. The interior designs she has drawn up show real promise, and we feel sure that her future career will be along these lines. You cannot help but be a success, "Cap," but may we wish you luck anyway?

Here is a boy who we feel needs no introduction. He has been able to introduce himself into the limelight quite successfully.

One of his great assets is his ability to study. He practically devotes the majority of his recesses to the laborious task of scanning the sport page of the "Daily Record."

Even though of small stature, he became athletically inclined long enough in his Junior year to be one of the mainstays of the varsity football team.

Angelo is very enthusiastic about continuing his scholastic career, but is as yet undecided as to what school he will attend. When he finally does decide however, we know that Angelo will hold his own in all ways—and will prove as popular as he has been in C. H. S. Success and lots of it from '35, Angelo.

Now we introduce one of the prim girls of our class. Rita appears to be quiet, but this is only appearance, for if you happen to be one of her closest friends you will find this far from right.

Although Rita likes a good time, she also believes in doing a little studying, that is why she always gets her testies.

As one of the Class Book typists Rita has spent many hours typing the copy of this book. If the book is considered a success, much of the credit reflects back to Rita.

Rita intends to be "Someone's Stenog" and her cheerful disposition will be sure to bring her success. Best of luck from the Class of '35.

About the best example of any girl in High School who can think for herself is Helen. She does not take everything she hears and reads for granted but discusses topics with people of different opinions so that she can then draw her own intelligent conclusions.

She always maintains the dignity of a school girl and about the only time she says she felt silly was when she bobbed over High Street one sunny afternoon in an old Ford whose center of gravity was high enough to attract attention.

Because of her varied interests, she has not decided about her future. but possibly her determination will help her to become a dietician with leisure time to closely watch science and politics!

Best of luck, Helen, from '35.

There is no need of using an elaborate speech to introduce to you this classmate of ours. It's just, "here she is."

The class of '35 did not have Virginia the four years of high school, but the little time she has been here she has won a distinctive place in our hearts.

"Ginger's" favorite subject is Biology. Now, can you picture her running around with a net in hand trying to catch butterflies?

She attended most of the school functions and took an active interest in school affairs. She can be seen quite a bit down around a certain grocery store. We wonder why?

"Ginger's" plans for the future are still indefinite but '35 knows that whatever vocation she decides on, she will be a success in it.

Best wishes from the class of '35, Virginia.

"Angel" is a quiet girl who received her first three years of High School training in Springfield, having moved here but a year ago. Her sunny disposition has won her a host of friends and although she says little, she appreciates a good joke, and she has a pleasant smile for everyone.

She is greatly interested in nursing and after graduating she intends to go back to Springfield, not because she likes it better than Clinton, but because she is to enter a training school there for nurses where she will be reunited with her old friends. The best of luck for a successful future is extended to her by all of her newly acquired classmates!

We don't have to introduce our classmate from Sterling, "Edie", just ask any of her pals at school, and they'll tell you all about her.

Every morning she comes to school in her little jitney, and although she starts out all alone from our suburb she never lands at school without a car full.

"Edie" in the future is planning to take care of the sick, we all know she'll make good with that smile of hers and her disposition.

"Edie" is noted for her parties, and a careful check on the personnel of all of her parties would reveal some very interesting facts. But we realize that all these parties are hers, and she can invite the same person to all of them if she so desires.

As "Edie" goes out in this wide world, good old C. H. S. wishes her all the luck in her profession.

Dark hair, dark eyes, sunny disposition, all go to make Mary. That "Flynnie" is a favorite of her classmates is of little wonder, for she is usually the girl who's bubbling over with mirth.

Mary uses her imagination freely. When called upon to give an idea of this or that, keeping in mind that concealment will avail her nothing, she expresses her opinions, caring little whether they are right or wrong.

"Mae" has only two bad habits that we know of; one is staying out late nights, and the other is a fondness for sleeping late mornings, which always gives her a race with the tardy bell.

"Flynnie" intends to go to Fairchild's in Worcester to complete her business course because she wants to be someone's private secretary. Whatever she may undertake we know she will succeed and best wishes of '35 will always follow her.

We will now introduce one of the shy and most dignified girls from the Acre.

"Babs" appears very quiet in school, but if you sat near her and listened to her you would have a different opinion.

"Ford" doesn't believe in studying very much, but always seemed to do well in her school work. Who will forget her original remarks in U. S. history? They came at such unexpected times that they brought gales of laughter from the class—to say nothing of the look of bewilderment on Mr. McGrail's face.

Helen intends to become a governess and we're sure that she will never be without a position.

Class of '35 wishes you luck, "Babs".

Pauline Fotinopoulos with her ever lasting smile, has had a very busy year. Pauline could always be seen rooting for the football squad. She was also very prominent in all the school social activities.

Pauline is popular with everyone in her classes. Every Monday afternoon Pauline can be seen attending the weekly History Circle gathering.

Pauline did not worry too much over her school work for worry only produces wrinkles and who wants wrinkles? She did do enough to maintain a good standing in class, and we know her willingness to help others at any time was greatly appreciated by those who asked her help.

Pauline hasn't quite made up her mind as to her future, but anywhere Pauline goes we're sure she will succeed. Here's wishing you good luck, Pauline.

We need a sort of a double introduction for "Sis" because everywhere you go you will see her with her sister.

"Sis", and, of course, her sister, was always seen in the cheering section at all of our games and we know that she attended every school activity.

As to studying, she does quite a bit, as her marks will show, but we don't want you to get the idea that she spends all her time on her lessons, for that is far from the truth. She is a very regular attendant at all of our socials and she certainly appears to have a good time at them.

Tasia has not told us what she has in mind for the future, and we can't get much out of her sister either. They tell us, however, that "Sis" is very handy with a needle—maybe that talent will be of use to her in the future, for although a needle is only a little thing, it points the way, sometimes, to good positions. Good luck, Tasia, from all of '35.

John is one of the most popular fellows in our class, and is John musical? We'll say he is, for he has an orchestra right in his own family and very few entertainments around town are complete without the Fuller Brothers on the program.

John is right at home in the math classes, especially when an argument is in progress. He likes nothing better than a good argument.

It would almost be an impossibility to list John's outside interests. He has built boats and motorcycles, and is in his glory tearing something to pieces to see what makes it tick. His knowledge of photography was put to good use in the Photography Club.

John hasn't mentioned his future ambitions, but every indication points to a technical education, where his mechanical ability will undoubtedly cause him to forge to the front.

Good luck John, from '35.

We have pretty authoritative knowledge that the song, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," was dedicated to our Rita—if it isn't it ought to be—for when did we ever see her without her happy-go-lucky manner and contagious grin? If a smiling personality and a healthy good humor mean anything, "Happy" should go exceedingly far toward making a name for herself.

Rita is gifted with the book of knowledge, but she doesn't want to use it to excess for fear of wearing out the print. (Anyway that's what she says).

Rita plans to be somebody's stenog and we know that her happy disposition will prove a helping factor in her future work.

Best of luck, Rita, from your classmates, whose advice is "Just keep Smilin' Thru."

Now, we shall introduce one of the most popular girls in our class. "Ruthie" is indeed popular with both sexes, and has won the hearts of all those who know her by her gay laughter and good nature. If anything goes wrong Ruth is always there to lend a helping hand in the situation.

If we enter Woolworth's store on Saturday nights, we see "Ruthie" behind the counter saying in a sweet, pleasant tone, "May I help you?" We sometimes wonder why she goes so often into the A. & P.—maybe that's where she buys her "dates."

"Ruthie" attends almost every social that is held and always seems to be in the midst of merry-making, but she also manages to keep her grades in school work too.

"Ruthie" has chosen the career of nursing and we all know that she will be successful in her vocation. Best of luck from '35 is with you, "Ruthie."

Folks, we are about to introduce our Helen. She is one of our "happy-go-luckies." "Giggles" is that engaging miss who is scarcely seen without a contagious smile and whose good nature makes her popular with all of us.

"Babe" is one of our quiet looking girls in school—but, oh my! out of school you ought to see her! By the way, she has a dimple in one cheek, and you know the saying about dimples!

We have often wondered if perhaps there was a reason why "Giggles" did not burn "midnight oil" on Sunday nights as the rest of we poor mortals do.

Helen plans to attend a prominent business school and eventually would like to be someone's Private Secretary—she has Ambition with a capital "A"—and so we know she will succeed. Best wishes for success and happiness are yours from '35.

Introducing "Ed" as he is known by his classmates; another of our quiet (so far as we know) boys who is never seen racing through the corridors or tossing book ends around the hall.

Although "Eddie" didn't go in for High School athletics, he may be seen on Burditt Hill's famous field smashing a "homer" when one is needed, or scoring a touchdown at the right time. There's no doubt that "Ed" is "there" in sports as well as studies.

Loads of luck go with you "Eddie" and the best wishes of '35.

We had no trouble in finding a motto to fit "Dot" and we think that the one chosen fits her exactly for "Dot" is a true and generous friend and she always lends a helping hand when it is needed. When you see "Dot" anywhere, you'll always see her shadow, "Ruthie," for they are inseparable.

Her popularity as well as her interest in sports, resulted in her selection by the A. A. as cheer leader during her Junior year. She was honored by appointment as student secretary of the Athletic Council during her Senior year—and, as such, assisted Mr. McCaffery materially in typing all correspondence for that body. Maybe the last portion of her quotation explains her success as a ticket seller during the baseball seasons, for she certainly did a great job, especially when Hudson played here.

It is rumored that "Toots" wants to don the white uniform of a nurse, and we have no doubt but that she will prove to be a very popular and efficient one.

C. H. S. will surely miss "Dot," and we think that "Dot" will miss C. H. S. The class of '35 all wish her success, and we know that if she does half as well in the future, as she has to date, she will be a success.

Your attention is now drawn to one of the busiest girls in Clinton High School. That does not mean that she is busy studying, because running errands is her daily routine.

Helen is never absent from a party or a show and she always joins in the fun, and she never fails to blush when a certain boy is mentioned.

Basketball games seem to be one of her hobbies. She is often seen down at Turner Hall on Saturday nights, there must be some special attraction there besides basketball.

"Gleisy" intends to enter Clinton Hospital's Training School for Nurses. We all know that she will succeed in her chosen profession.

Class of '35 wishes her the best of luck!

Let us now give you an introduction to "Stan" one of our quiet and unassuming lads who, when once asked how he liked to study, immediately replied that he hates it and said he does very little of it. But this does not prevent him from getting his share—no not of gilt-edged invitations to the P. M. sessions—but those little "testies." Give us the dope "Stan" for we can't see how it's done. Maybe through his modesty he denies that he studies very much, or is it a gift?

To conquer the business world is "Stan's" ideal and he merely believes in beginning early for during his four years' stay with us "Stan" in his spare hours, has industriously worked for the Telegram-Gazette Co.

Although he was unable to take active part in our sports, "Stan" was an ardent supporter of both our football and baseball teams, and at each game he could be seen in the stands rooting for C. H. S.

"Stan" has a rare disposition and has made, as well as kept, a great throng of friends during his stay at H. S. Although "Stan" is still undecided as to his further education, the class of '35 knows that he will succeed. Good luck—"Stan."

"I Like Mountain Music," this is the favorite melody of John, the well known mountaineer from Lancaster. John and his band were familiar sights to anyone who was present at the Amateur nights at our local theatre.

John's favorite out-door sport was automobile riding on Sunday afternoons, of course, with the proper companionship.

During his time in school John made many friends and with his genial disposition and pleasing personality, we are sure he will make many more in his future career.

Can anyone remember a successful school dance that John wasn't there to help out the fun? For it seems that wherever John went, a good time came with him.

John hasn't yet decided on his future course in life, but let him always feel sure that the best wishes of "35" go with him.

Alexander the Great, Solomon the Wise, Benjamin Franklin; all these have nothing on Morris Gould. Morris is as wise and intellectual as an owl (only his mind is active during the day, as well as during the night.)

Morris is regarded as a regular fellow by his classmates and keeps them in gales of laughter by his witty remarks, both subjective and objective. A genial good humor, a smiling countenance, and a ready wit, combined with real ability and the faculty of adopting a serious mien when the occasion demands, and we have enumerated "Murray's" chief characteristics.

His career at Clinton High School has been very successful in every way, and we can predict with certainty, that Morris and Success will walk hand in hand, after he has been graduated, and has matriculated at B. U., his chosen Alma Mater.

Next on the list is a radio operator. "Jack" as he is sometimes called, is the operator or "ham" of station WIHGA which hasn't been on the air lately because of the need of his spare time for his studies. Before this sudden scholastic learning, however, he could be heard conversing with other followers of the hobby in all parts of the world.

He was also in popular demand for his car. "Hey, John, take us to Berlin, Sterling, Etc", could be heard regularly throughout his years at the Alma Mater.

Although he didn't go out much for varsity sports he did participate in Interclass sports and was a member of the Tennis team in his Junior year.

John was also to be seen at all of the school functions and could really be called one of the boys. He was always obliging when called upon to help his fellow students.

John has an idea he wants to go to Art School. At that, his knowledge of dots and dashes might come in handy when painting. Best of luck, Johnnie, from the gang.

Elsie's dynamic personality is sufficient to overcome any sense of shyness that one might have at first meeting. Her wide smile and happy-go-lucky attitude have won her a permanent place in our hearts.

The interest Elsie took in all sports kept her cheering at every C. H. S. game. Her own superiority in tennis makes us just the least bit envious. She can be seen on the court every day from the time the tennis season opens, scoring highly with her swinging drives and forceful backhand.

With such an enthusiastic spirit we know that Elsie will climb high, and though her plans are incomplete, our best wishes for her success go with her.

The serious countenance across is by no means "Jay's" wonted expression. He assumed it only for special occasions—such as school. But even in such solemn and erudite surroundings the irrepressible "Jay" found difficulty in preserving a sober mien.

In Miss Walsh's English class, "Jay" had a large and faithful following and the frequent "Well, well's" and "Too bad's" emanating from the back of the room bespoke his deep and sympathetic interest in whatever story the class happened to be immersed. In Mr. Cobb's Math. class, too, "Jay" became quite prominent in spite of himself, and spent much time in "being removed from the radical."

"Jay" is an athlete of no little ability, and certainly took an active part in school athletics—besides being captain, manager, treasurer, and spiritual mentor of various football and baseball teams that sprang up around Company Field.

"Jay" is registered at Holy Cross for next year, and after that we expect to see him enter a medical school. Best of luck from the class, "Jay."

Ready to aid his fellow students in either studies or in errands, we find "Rich" always there with a helping hand. In addition to these splendid qualities, we find "Rich" to be dependable in all ways—whether it is in doing his lessons—or helping to perpetrate some joke or bit of fun on some unsuspecting classmate.

"Rich" is an ardent sportsman—and while he enjoys the High School Athletic contests—still he much prefers to pursue the "speckled beauties" in their lairs. From the time the trout season opens, until it closes, "Rich" might as well be called "Isaac Walton," for you'll always find him wending his way along some brook, trying to make a strike.

Girls?—We won't even mention the subject, for as far as "Rich" is concerned, they might as well not exist.

His future plans remain his secret,—but they will be revealed, no doubt, some day. Best wishes for success in whatever it may be, "Rich," from '35.

To attempt to make a complete record of the many friends "Jo" has made in her four years is a task which our limited space will not allow. No one can challenge the splendid quality of Josephine's character and disposition. Her qualities of friendship are parts to value. Sincere in season and humorous in due course, "Jo" has so blended these two attributes that her presence has lent charm and the so-called "pep" to any atmosphere.

Josephine conscientiously fulfilled the office of Secretary of the E. K. Club throughout our senior year.

We say "so long" to "Jo" with the hope of meeting her later on and we know she'll be the same loyal friend we knew in our days in C. H. S.

An introduction?—Well, here is one girl in our class who certainly does not need one—to either the members of her class or to most of the student body. For who doesn't know "Babs", that busy, industrious, and seemingly carefree girl who is a friend to everyone.

In spite of the fact that "Babs" always had her lessons, and, as you know, having them means spending a little time on them, to try to satisfy our instructors and keep them in good humor, she always was a faithful attendant at any High School activity, whether it was of an athletic nature or strictly social. Personally we think that "Babs" preferred the social variety—for we never have seen her fail to enjoy herself at that kind of function.

"Babs" has a decided leaning toward art and it would not surprise us a bit to see her continue her education along that particular branch of education. Talent will out, you know, and "Babs" has displayed plenty of it while in our midst.

Good luck, "Babs," we know you'll paint plenty of sunshine wherever you go.

"Mite is might." But glancing over and discovering the subject of discussion, we readily come to the conclusion that this expression "Mite is might" is to be applied in the sense of a winning personality and a never ending good humor.

As for moral support of sports—nuff said! Rita's lusty cheers coupled with those of the gang from "Cally" are enough to inspire any team with winning spirit.

We hardly have room to bring to light all of Rita's sterling qualities, but at any rate she will take them with her to training school, for it is Rita's intention to continue in the field of nursing, where they will stand her in good stead.

Needless to say, Rita, you have our sincere wishes for happiness and success.

Memorabilia

Gertrude is one of Mr. Cobb's brightest Junior Math pupils. She always gets at least one "testy" but most of the time many more.

"Gerty" is a very tall, brown-haired girl who is blest with a very sunny disposition, and is always willing to go out of her way to do a good deed for everyone. She does her work with a singular good will which will bring her success in the future.

"Gerty" has hopes of attending State Teachers' College in the Fall but is undecided just where. But we all know that wherever she goes she will be a favorite with all her classmates.

The class of 1935 gives her its sincerest wishes for success and good luck.

Now we come to our Mary—the bonnie, blithe, and buoyant spirited. Early in life Mary dedicated herself to two things—love of laughter and love of friends. Let us assure you she has gained both.

Mary has always come into class, all out of breath and avowing she hasn't a lesson done. Nevertheless we have observed that she has always managed to get well over the safety zone.

We notice that Mary has included in her activities membership in the A. A., and we do not wonder at that, for she could always be found at all athletic functions of the school, fulfilling her role of "loyal rooter."

We sincerely hope Mary will breeze through life with the same happy, carefree smile, and wish her every success for the road ahead. Although the road ahead has not as yet been definitely determined, we feel sure that she will, one day, fill, with success, the position of private secretary.

And now we come to Edna, one of our young and talented actresses. Besides being one of our best actresses, "Ed" is also popular with her classmates, because she has a pleasing personality that appeals to everyone.

Since her Freshman year she appeared in all of the Interclass Dramatics —who could forget the duet, "Let's Fall in Love," sung by "Jimmy" and Edna? Her proven ability in that art was given a greater opportunity when she played the part of a shy young bride in the Senior Show.

"Ed" attended all the school activities, from the football games to the tea-dances, and always had a good time.

A very lady-like miss is Edna and we know she will reach the top. Lots of luck from '35.

The title, "All American Girl," could be rightfully used for the book of Lillian's High School career, for besides that beauty and charm—characteristic of all German girls, she had an apparent persistence which brought favorable results in all of her scholastic endeavors.

Because of her ability to find everything of at least some interest, we know she never witnessed a dull moment, which was proven by her quite regular attendance.

She finds great enjoyment in all kinds of sports, but swimming and gymnastics hold a particular interest for her. Although we know her pleasant disposition would be an asset to a nursing profession, with athletics an avocation, Lillian would prefer a thorough training in physical culture teaching.

Whatever she pursues may it be to her a pleasant ride to success! Good luck, Lillian.

Who is that vivacious brunette we see? Of course none else than dear Elsie, the pride of the school. She is a very quiet girl, but sometimes when least expected is just the opposite. "L" is never found at the Armory or any other public place but usually attends private affairs.

Elsie tells us she doesn't care for boys much, but rumors have been going around about—well—won't you let us in on this "L"?

"L" once wanted to be a nurse, but is now quite undecided as to what her future will be. We all know, however, that she is fitted for the nursing profession because of her jolly disposition.

Whatever the future brings the class of '35 will wish her joy, health and happiness.

Good luck to you, Elsie.

Elsie is one of the testimonial pupils of our class. During her first and second years, she wore out a lot of shoe leather, running after the testimonials. You will find her in the back section of the hall, Period E, studying her French IV, unless some of her many friends interrupt her by asking some silly question.

Elsie may be seen on Monday afternoons boarding the two o'clock bus for Clinton in order to be on time for the History Circle. She is a leader and a very active member of the 4-H Club in Berlin, the "Metropolis".

She has many friends in school and is popular with the members of all classes. She hasn't decided what her future will be, but wherever she goes, she will be a success. The class of '35 wishes you the best of luck, Elsie.

Now we turn the spotlight on the "Belle of the Harbor" who needs no introduction because she knows everyone. She is just a happy-go-lucky and carefree girl, full of pep, vim and vigor.

"Ruthie" certainly can dance and it's one of her favorite occupations. She attends all the socials and has one grand time.

Her plans for the future are undetermined, but everybody knows with that personality of hers she'll succeed in whatever she undertakes. Best of luck "Kerry."

And now we turn to Irene, presumably a quiet and unconcerned member of the class, but this is merely a presumption for if you should happen to be one of "Rene's" chosen friends you would find such a thought was far from right.

Although "Rene" doesn't burn much midnight oil, at least not to pore over books, she keeps the red ink off her card.

Irene keeps rather quiet as to her future plans; but, nevertheless, we know that with her spirit of perseverance, whatever she might decide upon she will carry it out successfully.

No matter what you choose, Irene, the class of '35 wishes you the best of luck in your future life.

"May I help you, madam?" One is apt to hear this almost anywhere, but how many times has it uttered forth from the lips of James "Kitty" Kittredge, our popular young Clinton salesman, who besides working in a store in his spare time, is also working for the benefit of the good old class of '35.

Having taken an active interest in his class from his Fresmman year, "Kitty" rose to the heights this year, being elected Editor-in-Chief of our Class Book—a position of no little responsibility, but perfectly suited to a fellow of "Kitty's" ability.

In the Senior Show, he played the leading role to perfection, and was one of the big reasons why the show was such a huge success.

Proof of his popularity with his fellow and girl students was displayed when he was elected President of "Le Cercle Francais," an important office to hold.

C. H. S.'s loss will be Holy Cross's gain this Fall, for "Kitty" is preparing himself for that institution, and if the moral support of the High School students means anything, he will come through with banners flying. We're with you, "Kitty", so just keep your trail blazing.

There is a banging of desk covers, a thud of books on the floor and loud voices are heard. Another class riot? Nay! It is only "Willie" Kittredge and "Skippy" McGrail, the famous noisemakers of C. H. S.

"Bob" has a very pleasant sense of humor which tends to make him an agreeable companion and classmate. Any room in which "Bob" sits is sure to be kept in the proverbial "stitches" when the wisecracks start flowing from him.

Probably you wonder why William is called "Bob." He is thus named after the famous "Bobbie" Jones and if you ever saw our "Willie" hit a golf ball or putt, you would easily understand the monicker.

Eventually "Willie" expects to cap the American Open Golf Championship. But first he is going to matriculate at some institution of higher learning and with him go our best wishes for success.

"Kobie" has a grand sense of humor, but you have to know her real well in order to fully appreciate it. Her acquaintance not only assures you of cheerful moments at school, but also many interesting and healthful feats can be indulged in at her farm in Bolton—those strawberry "treats" and potato "Bakes"—yum, yum!

She takes an interest in every form of nature study, even if it's only another investigation into the hay loft to see the new "batch" of kittens.

But Sophie is by no means a country girl, for her ability in typewriting and shorthand may some day necessitate her departure to some big city to be the private secretary of some great financier. Of course, she would miss all of her interests "back home," nevertheless, it would be selfish of her to keep her secretarial ability where it could not be of use to her.

The good wishes of the class of '35 are with you in every one of your undertakings!

In introducing "Bee" we shall say she makes up the third of the two inseparable sisters.

Rain or shine we could always see the three musketeers coming out of "Bob's" with a cone of ice-cream.

On Monday afternoons she may be seen rushing along to attend the History Circle, in which she always took an active part.

Throughout her High School career, Bertha has made a success of everything she has undertaken. "Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you" is the motto of her carefree spirit. She is a firm believer in looking at the bright side of life, a true optimist in every sense of the word.

"Bee" hasn't exactly made up her mind as to her future but her classmates of '35 all know that she will be a credit to her class in whatever she undertakes—Good luck, "Bee," from '35.

"Hi, Howie!" "Hello, Kid!" "What's doing, Howie?" Don't be astonished, dear reader, for these above salutations are only the oral portion of a scene that is enacted almost daily when the inimitable "Howie" Kurtz breezes through the corridors at our High School. And you would easily understand why this is so, if you knew "Howie", his friendly smile, and his likeable disposition.

"Howie" is an exponent of the Terpsichorean art. If, at any of our social affairs a form wriggling with good nature and mirth is seen, you can safely bet it is "Kurtzy."

"Howie" directed the destinies of the Tau Sigma, and proved to be quite a capable executive.

Next Fall will find "Howie" compiling figures at Becker's College and we know Becker's will enjoy him as much as we did.

With "Kurtzy" goes the very best of wishes of the class of 1935.

Look who we have here! When you first meet Nicoleta, she seems to be shy, but after you know her better, you will find she isn't so shy after all.

Your first look at "Nicky" may deceive you, especially if she is in class, for "Nicky" can be a very demure Miss when she wants to be. "Dolly" is, however, a very conscientious student and she certainly gets her share of testimonials. "Why not?"

Her best pal is "Marg" and they are almost always seen together.

"Dolly" intends to go to Normal School. Whatever she does, we know she will be a success.

Best of Luck go with her from the class of '35.

"A secretary to a millionaire," that is "Kay's" ambition, and here's one who will vouch for her success, because "Kay" is recognized at once as being clever, ambitious, and fair, and with those characteristics, who couldn't win?

Fond relatives and friends, scanning the testimonial list for "Kay's" name were very seldom disappointed.

"Kay" is one of the pretty girls of the class, and was a frequent patron at the School Socials.

It's breaking "Kay's" heart, as it is the rest of ours, to leave dear old Clinton High, but we'll all have "to grin and bear it." The class of '35 hopes you get your millionaire "Kay" and loads of luck.

Since "Stan" entered High School four years ago, his huge physical proportions have stood him in good stead on the football field, where he was a "Holy Terror" in the line and was honored with the Captaincy during his last year.

So popular was "Stan" that he was elected President of our fair class for two years, and the success of the Junior Prom was a result of "Stan's" hard work.

Everyone knows that if there is any deviltry going on, "Stan" has started it or is cheering on the sidelines.

And "Butch" is quite a swimmer too. Any Sat. afternoon will find him and "Bick" in at the Worcester "Y" splashing up and down the tank.

"Stan" is bound for Mercersberg Academy. and we are sure he will lighten the Coach's worries when he comes out for the team next Fall. Good luck, "Stan," from '35.

Come on! Green.—Come on! Gold.—Hold that line!—If you attended any of our football games, last season, you would probably wonder at the leather-lunged individual who led the cheers for our gridiron warriors. Well! —Here he is—and how!—

"Gil" deserts the cheer leading job, however, when the baseball season rolls around in order to join the baseball squad. For "Gil" certainly is sport-minded, and we think that many times he has had the football blues, because his lack of huskiness prevented him from joining the football squad.

In school "Gil's" personality has won a warm pláce in our hearts. He was never found wanting when he was asked to help out his class or his classmates, and such tasks—some of which were quite irksome—(ask him about the duties of a stage manager) were always performed to the best of his ability and always with a smile.

"Gil's" ambition and future ideas?—We don't know but the future will take care of itself. Keep up the old fight, "Gil," and best wishes from '35 for a successful career.

Ability, combined with modesty; tact, diplomacy, and an ever-present store of good-fellowship—these are the qualities which have endeared "Mack" not only to his fellow classmates, but to the High School at large. Anyone who was fortunate enough to penetrate beneath his mantle of serenity found a staunch friend and a true companion.

His athletic interests are very keen and he enjoys all sports very much. "Mack" has also shown a great interest in social affairs and has never failed to exhibit the real High School spirit by his attendance at all High School functions.

We are sure "Steve" will accomplish something worth while in after life. The class of '35 wishes him the best of luck.

And now we come to Burditt Hill's contribution to the class of 1935. Who is he? Why "Bill" Madden, of course, that ever popular and glamorous person who has a good word for everyone.

During his four year stay at the school, "Bill" never had any trouble with any of the pupils or the teachers; he was never late for school, very seldom absent, and was never down to the office—except on private business.

Although Bill never believed in burning the midnight oil studying, he managed to get by with marks of certificate grade. We wonder what his marks would be if "Bill" ever really studied.

"Bill" plans on entering Holy Cross this coming September and he says that he is going to study when there. We know that if he does study, the class of '35 will have an honor student at the Cross.

Well, "Bill," you can be assured that the best wishes of the class of 1935 go with you.

"Joe" is one of the few quiet boys of the graduating class. He was never in any trouble with the office or with the teachers. In fact he got along very well with the teachers, as his report card will show. During his high school course one can never remember seeing a red mark on "Joe's" report card, nor can anyone remember ever seeing "Joe" study very hard.

During his four year confinement in Clinton High, "Joe" never went out for varsity athletics, but he was one of the standouts on our interclass teams, starring in both football and baseball.

"Joe" was also quite interested in the social side of school, serving on various committees and belonging to most of the clubs. "Joe" has made many friends during his four years, and as he goes down that long trail that's winding out before him, the well wishes of the class of 1935 will follow him.

"Hey Mars! Whatcha get in U. S.?" "Gee, I only got ninety-nine." (and how). Before you are aware of the passing of a minute Helen has revealed the news behind the headlines in addition to the curious bits of information which she obtains from "nowhere."

Being among the most popular girls at school, it is little wonder that her name always is found among the list of participants in dramatic affairs. Her interpretation of her role in the Senior Show was a masterpiece, and will long be remembered by those who witnessed that production.

Helen's popularity came in handy as a member of our Class Book Staff, for she assumed an unusual burden in writeup responsibilities—and proved her worth by having them all in on time.

State Teachers' College is Helen's next destination and some day she will be found among the school marms of our country. Good luck, Helen, and lots of success in your chosen profession.

One of the few students who really knew how to study was Mary. The teachers were delighted to have Mary in their classes, because a hard working and successful girl is always appreciated.

"Molly" is a true friend indeed, and is always ready to help the rest of us. In the morning one hears, "Mary, did you do your French?" or "Will you help me with my Latin?"

Mary is a small, dainty little girl and appears to be very quiet, but as one of the "gang" in the back of the hall, she manages to contribute her share of the noise.

All in all, we can't express our liking for Mary, but we know that wherever Mary goes or whatever she does, her sunny disposition will win her hosts of friends as it has in school.

Mary plans to go to college next year. We all know she will be successful. The best wishes of the Class of '35 go with you, Mary!

Now we come to "Joe" Mason, the Bobby Jones of our class. Almost any afternoon from April to November, you can find him at the Runaway Brook Club. Although "Joe" served with credit on our class football team at various times, his greatest gift to the class was his interpretation of "Aaron," the inn keeper in our Senior Show.

"Joe" is one of the best known and best liked boys in the class. From the time when we entered as freshmen up through our three years into our Senior year, "Joe" was always the same willing, good-natured person, no matter where you met him or under what circumstances.

Although "Joe" did not believe in running a chance of having a nervous breakdown from overstudy he always managed to get by.

"Joe" intends to gain fame in the Golf world and we feel sure that he will. No matter what you do, "Joe," the class of 1935 wishes you the best of luck.

"Mannon" is a clever, cheery, industrious girl. Her happy and willing disposition has won many friends for her. As Marion is popular among her classmates, so is she popular with her teachers.

When we think of "Mannon" we can only recall those characteristics which are of the finest; a sunny disposition, a pleasing personality, a lovable nature and a willingness to help.

Marion is very brilliant, and gets more than a few testies each quarter. Scholastically, an apt student; socially, a great success; artistically, a natural born bookkeeper; thus "Mannon" is known to all.

Here's wishing the most reliable girl we know, all the luck in the world, for she plans to enter Becker's next year. We know she will be a success, because she succeeds in everything she undertakes.

Let us now focus the spotlight on one of the cheeriest girls of our class, "Polly". Paula is always on the alert and is just "raring to go." She is one of the school's best musicians and has gained much popularity from the opposite sex by her talent at the piano.

Paula has indeed done her share for the athletic association for at every game we see her standing at the grandstand cheering her team on.

If Paula's giggling wasn't chimed in with the others we all knew that something went wrong with her, but that was so unusual.

Paula has chosen for her career nursing and we all know that she will win the hearts of all her patients by her smiles. The best of luck from "35" goes with you, Paula.

Here goes—! An introduction to a happy-go-lucky miss who hasn't much to worry about, and wouldn't if she had. Though supposedly quiet, you will observe a mischievous twinkle in her big brown eyes.

She was always a good sport and ready for a good time. She was awarded a gold medal for running in her sophomore year—some speed!

Although "Rudy" never overworked herself studying, she more than "just got by."

"Rudy" has ambition to become a hairdresser, yet we may see her in the future behind an office desk. Whatever it may be—Best of Luck from the class of '35.

Here comes Helen, one of our most friendly classmates. She is a friend of everyone, from freshman to senior and is always willing to help anyone out of difficulty. By her winning personality and her quick thinking she can easily straighten matters out.

Studies have no particularly tough spots for Helen and she has consistently found herself on the testimonial list. She is one of the few taking Latin IV, which ought to prove her ability, since she is never in any difficulties in that subject.

While there are rumors about her wanting to become a teacher, we have not confirmed them, but we are sure that she would make an ideal teacher, for not only would she know her subject, but she possesses the initiative, personality, and thoroughness to put it across to the pupils. Lots of luck, Helen, in whatever you undertake, and if it's teaching, go easy on the pupils.

Memorabilia

"Dotty" is a girl who distinctly fits into things. During her four years with us she has gained many friends both in and outside of school.

At our social functions "Murph" usually lends her charm and grace. And incidentally we have never seen her sitting out a dance.

Although friendly to all our young Don Juans, she is seldom seen in their company. Contrary to that old proverb, "Opportunity only knocks once,"—opportunity has knocked several times and goes on knocking without arousing "Dotty's" interest in the least.

The simple but eloquent word "Cornfields" will light the sparkle in her eyes—and though you may have one in your backyard, it just isn't the kind she craves. Geography tells us the best are in the West!

Her ideas as to the future are still known only to herself—but such reticence will not hinder us in wishing her success in her future life. Good luck, "Dot", from '35.

For our next feature on this program, we present "Joe" Murphy, another one of the Hill Boys. "Joe" is the sort of pupil who never really becomes serious and who is always trying to find the humorous part of a teacher's explanation. His pleasing personality and his ever-ready wit have won him a great deal of friends.

"Joe" never put much time on his lessons but nevertheless he always seemed able to corral some pretty good marks at the end of the quarter.

Those of us who took Bookkeeping in Room 4 and U. S. History in Room 5 found out that "Joe" was not a "woman hater" and a few of Mr. McGrail's comments on why "Joe" wasn't paying attention, often brought a blush to "Murph's" face.

"Joe" hasn't decided yet what he will do following graduation, but whatever he does or wherever he goes, he carries with him the best wishes of the class of '35.

"Murph" as she is known by all her friends is an outdoor girl. We picture her from this point of view because of her dislike for the inside of a school room. Nevertheless she always manages to get some studying done.

"Murph" and the tardy bell meet frequently on the threshold of the main entrance. Wherever "Murph" is there's usually "something up."

"Murph" is a very witty girl and can always take a joke.

Although she is undecided as to what career she wants to follow, we know, however, that she will meet with success in whatever she attempts. 1935 wishes you heaps of luck in whatever your choice might be.

Well folks, here she is. Of course you know her. Everyone does. "Marg" attends all the socials and she certainly has a good time at them. At least that is what she says!

Every time there is History Circle, she and her pal "Nicky" manage to get the front seats; the excuse is to be sure to hear the speaker. Maybe it's true, but we doubt it.

In the future years you may see Margaret tending patients who are glad they are sick because it seems like "Seventh Heaven."

Well, Margaret, the class of '35 wishes you the best of luck.

To all outward appearances Margaret is quiet, but those who know her find she has a most winning personality. To prove this, one just has to go up to the Hall at recess and find her the center of a noisy group.

"Miggy" was most unselfish, quite willing to sit back and let the others walk off with the testimonials. No one could call Margaret a bookworm, for it is a well-known fact that she much prefers going to the movies to studying; but just the same she always managed to be in a comfortable position as far as marks were concerned.

"Miggy" certainly had to do some tall hustling to get to school on time, and she succeeded save on rare occasions.

Margaret is undecided as to her future but wherever it may be spent, we feel sure she will gain as many friends as she has here in C. H. S.

Au revoir, Margaret, the best wishes of the class of '35 go with you.

Here is a girl who needs no introduction for she has been able to introduce herself to everyone successfully. The reason?—Well, she has the good fortune to possess a wonderful sense of humor, and she always appears to be in the best of spirits.

We wouldn't think of mentioning "Mac" without mentioning "Russ", for these two girls are real pals, are always together, being as inseparable as Siamese twins.

"Mac" is a regular attendant at all of the school dances and she always has a good time. All the boys are aware of this fact because many have found out that the only way to dance with "Mac" is to give her plenty of notice, for her program is usually filled up away ahead.

"Mac" has her own plans for the future and we hope that they will work out to perfection. Whatever they might be, if the well wishes of her classmates of '35 are of any help, she is a success already.

"Skip" has taken care of the financial end of our fair class for three years, being the Class Treasurer—which explains the prosperous condition of our class—and showed how the financial end was skillfully handled.

John certainly is an actor. His portrayal of the meek postman in the Junior Interclass Show was the cause of rollicking mirth and truly deserving of a contract from the Warner Brothers.

"Skip" has filed his intentions of entering some higher institution of learning, and with John goes all the wishes of the class of '35.

"Mickey" is our only feminine representative from Lancaster, but she certainly does sufficient representing for many. Whether it is studies, athletics, socials, or just plain fun, "Mickey" always more than holds up her end.

"Mickey" and "the Crowd," Helen, Marie, and Ardis may be seen in "Mickey's" car at any time of day or night leading certain other well known vehicles a merry chase. Helen attends all the school socials and is ever the height of sartorial perfection. However, all this doesn't keep her from getting her share of testimonials each quarter.

We wonder why Helen appears at the Lancaster tennis courts so early on bright Summer mornings—if her interest is entirely in tennis (?) Helen, by the way, is going in for swimming in a big way this Summer.

Helen plans to enter Katherine Gibbs School this Fall, and with all her excellent qualities she cannot help but be a success.

Silently, quietly, unobserved, Mary has wended her way up the hill of learning. Still a little quiet, she is in no wise unobserved, for she has won the sincere esteem and genuine friendship of all her classmates.

In everything Mary undertook she displayed the unflinching determination and seriousness of purpose that marks the woman of success.

Steadfastness of sure intent and a cheerful nature are sufficient to insure what we all wish for Mary—success and prosperity.

To look at Stanley one would think he was a quiet, studious boy, but our close contact with him proves differently for a good joke, no matter how small, is always sure to receive its applause, (of giggles) from Stanley. However, he usually does his giggling when the teacher's back is turned, but that has not made him invincible to suspicion.

He never forces himself to study; the fact is that he studies as long as the subject holds interest, and from the steady way he worked at business practice problems, we have an intuition that Stanley would like to handle money.

Because he upholds that experience is the best teacher, after graduation he intends to enter the business world. No doubt, his inveterate optimism will be a strong rung in the ladder to success! Good luck, Stanley, from "35."

Chalk up another regular fellow from the Acre, and while on the subject of chalk—here's "Chalk" himself beaming at you from the opposite page. Frank is a real Acreite and is well versed in the traditions of that, the best section, of Clinton.

While "Chalk" is a little more quiet than others from the Acre—still, get the ball rolling and he will be right there to give it a few shoves, for he is generally in the midst of all hilarity, but by that look of innocence of his, manages to get off much more easily than those who look guilty all the time.

They tell us that he can manipulate an automobile with the best of them, but we are not questioning that. We do know, however, that "Chalk" is a strong believer in the old days, that a woman's place is in the home, for he leaves them strictly alone, to hear him tell it.

It's rumored that Frank is going to matriculate at Holy Cross—if it is true—we know that he will be a credit there to those in Clinton High. Good luck, old boy, and may success, prosperity, and happiness be yours for many years to come.

Who was it that said that "Joe" was quiet? Well, whoever it was must have gone by appearances alone for while "Joe" has the ability to appear innocent of all hilarity, still he enjoys any type of fun as much as anyone else, and is always ready to join with the gang in a little football practice in the hall at recess.

And as for studies, "Joe" thinks that any High School would get along much better without them, and as we think of it we are inclined to favor that idea. Still "Joe" hasn't had to worry too much about the marks on his card —for he always seems to get along nicely, which is better than some of us can say.

We haven't been informed by "Joe" of his future plans, but we know that they will come to light some day and we are sure that "Joe" will carry on to a successful career—as he has in high school.

Good luck "Joe" in whatever you choose to do—'35 wishes you success—and lots of it.

Memorabilia

No doubt you all know "Tony" one of the most active members of our class. Just get in conversation with "Odey" and before long you will have made up your mind that he is one of the wittiest and most intelligent persons you have ever met.

He is one of the most sociable of our boys and can be found at all the school dances making them so much the better for all.

"Tony" also can wield a mean tennis racket and in good weather can be seen heading for local courts where he is a standout.

Although his plans for the future are as yet uncertain, he will soon decide what to pursue in the future and it's the wish of the class that success may crown his efforts no matter what vocation or profession he might choose.

Bong! Look out! Step aside! Here comes O'Malley trying to beat the bell. He's in reality a human alarm clock because of his split record timing ability, but nevertheless, in spite of this, he is frequently asked by Mr. Cobb the famous question (How many times were you late?) with the resulting award of spending recesses in the lecture room.

Henry is quiet around school and believes that the easiest way to avoid trouble is to mind one's own business. This admirable trait, which so few of us possess, has kept him out of all difficulties—other than those mentioned above, during his stay at High School.

Henry has taken an active interest in both the French Club and the History Circle and we understand that he once won some kind of a contest in the French Club, but he has never mentioned it, we wonder why.

Although Henry has not indicated his choice for his future seat of learning, we understand that he has decided leanings toward Holy Cross. Wherever he goes, however, we want to wish him success and we feel sure that he will more than make good.

And now we come to "Jack," the big boy of the class, large in stature and still greater in personality.

As an actor, athlete, and crooner, "Jack" has left his mark, during his High School days, and his ability in each of these fields is unquestioned. His interpretations of his roles in the shows have left nothing to be desired and really carried the shows along.

In our Radio Revues—he has always had a prominent part and his offerings at these presentations have always been well received. Who will forget his rendering of "Thanks" at our last Thanksgiving Show?

A tower of strength in the Clinton line, "Jack" with his outstanding play and crashing tackles, often made opposing ball toters wish that they had never seen a football.

"Jack" has had little difficulty scholastically and so we can see no obstacles in his path when he enters college. We know that he will enjoy college life to the utmost, for on personality alone, to say nothing of his other talents, he will gain many strong friendships as he has here in C. H. S.

All the luck and happiness that it is possible to give is the legacy of '35.

Memorabilia

"Joe" entered the portals of Clinton High as a quiet, unassuming freshman with a smile that seemed never to leave his face. In his four years at C. H. S. he has become one of the most popular boys in the class of '35, which needless to say includes both sexes.

"Joe" immediately starred in sports, especially in football and baseball. He is quite a hockey player and a game is never complete without him.

"Joe" is as much a scholar as he is an athlete. He has shown exceptional ability as a mathematician in Solid and Trig, and with the slide rule he has no competitors. "Joe" stands out in the experimental branch of Physics, being always ready to save the honor of the class when everybody has failed.

As Treasurer of the History Circle he has handled the monetary problem of that society with an ability which received for him a fine respect among his fellow students.

"Joe" plans to enter the engineering profession and the class of '35 wishes him all the success in the world.

Well, well, if it isn't our own C. H. S. song bird. "Gret" needs no introduction for there isn't a person in the whole town who has not been thrilled by her lovely voice.

"Gret" didn't need the proverbial truck to carry her testimonials up the hill, but neither was she left "out in the cold."

"Marge" certainly can't be termed as quiet, for she is one of those dignified (?) seniors who sits in the back of the Hall. And confidentially her secret ambition is to be a second Joe Penner and can you truthfully call a fair young lady with an ambition like that, quiet?

"Gret's" plans for the future are indefinite as yet, but we know that success will surely follow her charming personality and lovely voice, and we of '35 certainly wish her the best of luck.

As to "Joe's" introduction one is scarely needed. For no doubt all have seen him toiling so gallantly and ably in all our major athletic events so as to add another feat of victory to the school's cap. And with his departure we all know that a regular's post on both our football and baseball teams will be open.

But, not only were "Joe's" abilities flourishing in sport, but also in actual study, a proof of which could be found in the "testimonials awarded" column in the "Item." Thus not only was "Joe's" popularity harbored in sport-lovers, but also among his teachers, who no doubt were relieved at not having another athletically-minded student to bother with.

As to "Joe's" social activities, it can be said, that "Joe" hates the life of a fast-stepping Romeo, but prefers that of a quiet humorous fellow.

To such a C. H. S. warrior who upheld its honor on so many foreign fields we ardently wish the best of success in the future—a future which will apparently be a success if he bucks it like he did the charging opposing line.

Here is a well known figure in the eyes of the whole student body. For who doesn't know that good looking boy who goes under the name of "Teddy." And when "Teddy" walks out onto the baseball diamond the sigh from the female section of the bleachers can be heard all over the field.

"Ted" is also well known in the U. S. History class, being one of the group who sit together Period C. He is also a prominent member of the History Circle where he quite frequently lets people know of his opinion.

But "Teddy" stood out especially as an athlete. For who can fail to remember him, the erstwhile "Dizzy Dean" of our baseball team and he really deserves his share of praise for the creditable season that the team has experienced.

"Teddy" has not yet revealed his future destination, but wherever the future takes you, you are assured of the best of luck from "35."

Hella is one of our sweet, capable, industrious girls, rather fond of keeping herself in the background, yet always willing to help out if she is able.

In her four years of High School, she has made a host of friends through her genial and unassuming manner.

Quiet, did you say? Yes, she is, although she takes advantage in the hall of talking with the rest of the "bunch", but usually Hella attends to her work and tries to keep out of trouble.

Hella's winning personality has endeared her to all her classmates and we sincerely wish her luck for the future.

Four years, it is usually admitted, is sufficient to acquaint one with the traits of a person with whom we have come in daily contact. It needed far less to make us realize the worth of "Dot's" friendly spirit.

Always willing to give a helping hand in difficulties, Dorothy early transmitted to us her quiet charm and unruffled poise.

A girl perfectly thorough and above-board, with force of personality, is the type that naturally and capably fits into things worth while; so, "Dot," we are proud to have you as a "Thirty-fiver," and here we are to the inevitable farewell, wishing you loads of success in whatever destiny might bring in the future.

Now on turning the pages of this book of ours we come to one of the best liked boys in our class. Earl has been a happy-go-lucky sort of fellow during most of his stay in High School. He has breezed through his four years without any worrying and with plenty to spare.

Earl's favorite form of athletics was skating. Any afternoon and night during the skating season, Earl could be seen on one of our well-known skating rinks at his favorite pastime. He was also one of our best hockey players, being a regular on our team since his sophomore year.

Earl was also prominent in the social events of the school. He took an active part in the activities of the History Circle and the Tau Sigma.

Earl intends to take up the study of Aeronautics and hopes to make a name for himself in this field.

Best wishes from the class of '35, Earl.

When the class of '35 points out its pride and joy it certainly can't afford to miss "Dot".

Ever since her Freshman year she has taken part in the school shows—good shows they were too—and good parts for our "Dot". Her sense of comedy has been something to rave about for four years.

Outside of school she is the same breezy, carefree girl. Ask Esther about her—they have tripped through the corridors together since the day they registered.

"Dot" is undecided about her future. She would like to be a Journalist. Personally we think we shall some day see her as one of our great comediennes.

Best of luck, "Russ."

Let us now introduce you to "Tommy," a little fellow with big ideas. A fellow who some day hopes to build a bridge that will make Brooklyn Bridge look like a footwalk across a creek. And "Tommy" is quite a student as one can see by his lucid proofs in Solid and his successful experiments in Physics. And even though Mr. McGrail does change Mr. Russell from a banker one day to a pick and shovel man the next, "Tommy" smiles through it all and comes out on top.

If you ever happen to visit Brockelman's store on Mechanic Street and a curly headed fellow with a large radiant smile supplied your needs, it would be "Tommy" in his role as grocery man. Since he was busy there every afternoon "Tom" lacked the time to partake in many school activities. But "Tommy" was a member of the History Circle, and he was also one of the reasons why the Photography Club was a success.

"Tom" hopes to take up Civil Engineering and he can be assured that the class of "35" will back him to the limit.

"She acts, speaks, and behaves just as she ought."

Frances is sincere, sympathetic, clever, and good natured, and an appreciation of sport, fair play and generosity is a characteristic which has endeared her to us.

Frances held the position as one of the two Editors-in-Chief of our Year Book, and not in name only, for she worked diligently, which helps to account for the success of this book.

She is a quiet, unassuming young lady in school with her mind seriously on her work. which was proven at the end of every quarter when she was awarded with five testimonials.

Frances' musical ability is not to be overlooked. She has often represented our class, accompanying us at graduation, and was a member of the orchestra for two years.

Frances hopes to continue her studies at Worcester State Teachers' College. May your able leadership carry you successfully through life!

"Hands on hips place. Bend the knees deeply." One—two—three—four!!! Yes that's Claire, directing her gym class, who knows, perhaps in C. H. S. in some future date.

Claire certainly will be missed by all here—especially by Mr. Cobb and Miss Moran who were so used to having her on the carpet for something or other.

Besides a natural talent for being habitually late this young lady has the gift of being popular—but then how can she help it. She has proven her popularity by being selected as Vice-President of our class during her Junior and Senior years.

The height of Claire's ambition is to become a physical training instructor —but you never can tell she may change her mind. Anyway she couldn't be anything but successful in any line she tries—so loads of luck from C. H. S. and all your friends, Claire.

Whether it is in the corridors or on the street you'll always find "Jenny" showing that she is thoroughly content with life by her hearty laugh, nor does she laugh alone, for when she flashes those conspicuous white teeth, the smile becomes contagious and everybody around her is happy!

Although "Jennie" only takes her books home to give her that scholastic appearance, she has, like everyone else, certain interests, and hers are in biology and nursing. These are, however, only sidelights, for her excellent work in Miss Smith's drawing class has induced her to spend a great deal of her time this Summer in one of the prominent art schools.

The class of 1935 extends its best wishes for "Jenny's" future success.

And here we have Margaret Scanlon. Margaret? Of course we mean "Peggy." She's the original "Peg O' My Heart." Who among us is not aware of her elusive charm and her sunny and likeable disposition? "Peg" has a host of friends—and not just girl friends either!

As a scholar, much could be said for her. Now don't think she's a grind! Nothing of the sort! "Peggy" is naturally gifted with a keen mind. So we find with a minimum amount of study she manages to be somewhere on "the top".

Yes, she's an Acreite. It's a mystery to us how "Peg" manages to get in just before the tardy bell. This brisk walk she affects is the answer. It also accounts for that slender figure.

Some day we'll gather up enough courage to ask her the answer to the riddle of "Goldilocks and the Baird"—oops—pardon us, we should have said "Bear!"

"Peggy" aspires to take up nursing. We can all be sure that she'll be a tremendous success in that profession.

Good luck "Peggy", from '35.

Here is "Nan", the complaisant. Her quiet yet forceful manner has gained her innumerable friends. Anna has the rare quality of being a good listener —until there is need to say something. She is sincere, unaffected, and the possessor of a delightfully human smile.

One of "Nan's" greatest assets is her imperturbability. The problem that can worry her is pretty serious. To see her concerned over anything is a rare sight.

Anna's disposition is sure to carry her through life "on high" and all the good wishes of '35 go with her.

Music! Lights! (Spotlights, of course). On with the dance. Yes, it's Delia Starr, our leading terpsichorean artist. We are all proud of this talented member of our class, who seems to be included in all local shows of quality.

We will always remember her dances in our Radio Revues—for they were the hit of the show.

Delia is a living fashion sheet for her clothes, (including that raccoon) and—well—we won't say anything about the boys. But Delia is not merely ornamental for she happens to be well equipped with brains, truly a rare combination.

Delia spends her recesses in Room 7—where, with "Marg" and others, pestered, or was pestered, until Mr. Dyer had to ask for her cooperation in returning the room to its original condition.

Delia has very definite ideas concerning her future. She intends to matriculate at Jackson College this Fall and we know that her record there will be a credit to C. H. S. Good luck, Delia, from your classmates in '35.

What can I say about "Lil" that has not already been said or told? Why are Periods A and B the most interesting to "Lil" during her senior year? Why does she always carry out a book, just to look studious or else to get by the door as a student? This is not a question box however—and we don't attempt to give the answers. We know, however, that all of "Stevie's" friends can supply many answers to these questions.

As an athlete Lillian proved her worth in the French Club—Sophomore Club classic. She twirled the ball over the plate like a veteran, and out babed "Babe Ruth" by whacking three successive home runs.

"Lil" intends to become a nurse, and we can just picture her dressed in white, attending to her duties in the nursing profession.

The best wishes of '35 go with you, "Lil".

There is so much we could say about "Lill" that we could write for hours and then not be finished. She is one of those happy persons who can be relied upon to see the joke in everything. "Bunny" is quite capable of whispering and laughing too much in her classes with her pal Mary (especially in the Hall E. Period) but we will forgive her for that because it is sometimes relative to school work.

"Strunzie" believes in the old saying "You're only young once" and enjoys herself everywhere she goes. All who know "Lill" are well acquainted with her sunny disposition and cheery smile.

"Bunny" goes for dancing in a big way and will be found at a dance with her friends Mary and Helen. She also enjoys swimming and skating.

Her plans are to become a nurse and we know by the amount of friends she has at dear old C. H. S., she won't have any trouble making friends in the future. The class of '35 wishes her the best of luck.

Mary is one of the girls in our class whose meek and quiet exterior proves to be really a true insight to her character—except when she's on the basketball floor. We then get a glimpse of the fire and eagerness, not to mention ability, that lies beneath our Mary's outer covering.

She is one of the out-of-town girls whose duty it is to try to get to school on time—especially in the Winter when the motor of the car freezes, the engine stalls, and ice freezes on the windshield. However, trust "Molly" to guide her little red "bus" through these difficulties and arrive, well, almost on the dot.

Here's wishing you the best of luck, Mary, and may your road be that of success.

Eunice has seemed to enjoy her four years in Clinton High and we of '35 have certainly enjoyed having her with us, for she has proved to be the life of the party on many occasions.

And speaking of parties, the week-end dances would lack something if "Tatter" didn't put in an appearance. She is always there with a bright smile and we have always noticed that she certainly has a good time, for she never lacks a partner for any dance.

A few of us wonder what we will do after she leaves us for we certainly love and appreciate her "Waves". There is talent in "them thar fingers"—and who can tell but that some "Beauty Shoppe" will claim her for its own? However, we are not at all sure—for—well, we won't give away any secrets.

We are sorry, as we know "Tatter" is to leave C. H. S.—for we all enjoyed many good times both in school and at High School functions. However, all good things must end—and so it's with our best wishes for her future that we bid her adieu.

"Don" is the carefree country lad of our class with a smile for all and a scowl for none. Has he ever been known to look at the dark side of life or study when he didn't have to?

Not being from town he entered few school clubs or athletics but was in town for all the dances and good times.

"Don's" only weakness was for brunettes and mathematics. He's one of the very few who takes "Solid and Trig" because he didn't have to; and likes it.

"Don" is now driving an ice cream truck but hopes some day to own the whole factory.

Lots of luck in whatever the future has in store for you "Don."

To the casual observer "Dicky" is quiet and reserved, but we who have known him through the past years are positive that this conclusion is erroneous.

"Dicky" enjoys all sports, although he distinguished himself as a football player while playing on the interclass team. He claims that he has no interest in the opposite sex, but that is what he says.

His pet subject is bookkeeping, but let it be known that he also received testimonials for his other subjects.

"Dicky's" interpretation of the earnest "Sam" in the Senior show proved his metal as an actor. The roars of laughter that pervaded the Town Hall at his lisping conversation showed the enjoyment and appreciation on the part of the audience of "Dicky's" acting ability.

"Dicky's" future is undecided but most likely it will concern business, so the class of "35" wishes "Dicky" the best of luck.

Who in High School does not know "Bill" Wasel, the shy (?) boy from Germantown. We question the word shy, because we are only going by the evidence given by him in school. Still, it may not be shyness—but instead, good sense—for his lack of time for the fairer sex does not give them any chance for gossip about him.

We know that he enjoys sports, for he is a close follower of basketball at Turner Hall, even though we never found him tripping "the light fantastic" after the games. Then, too, he is exceedingly fond of fishing—and many a bass has been landed by "Bill", from the waters of the Reservoir.

We would call it a rare sight if "Bill" were seen with an arm full of school books—but in some unconceivable manner he never seemed to be bothered with flunks. We'd like that recipe, "Bill", we just can't seem to be so successful.

His future plans have yet to be completed, but the whole class of 1935 unites, "Bill", in wishing you lots of success in whatever is to be your choice of a career.

Lo and behold! It is none other than the Clark Gable and Bing Crosby of our Class.

"Jimmy" has been prominent in dramatics since he entered high school, playing the lead in all interclass shows. As a singer "Jim" ranks among the foremost, as is shown by his excellent performances in our Thanksgiving Shows.

"Jim" is also one of our best athletes, having starred in football and baseball since he entered high school, and lest we forget we must also make mention of his sterling work as a member of the first hockey team the school has had in recent years.

Although "Jimmy" never got into the habit of bearing down on the books, still he always managed to get more than his share of good marks, and his name was a familiar sight in the Item for testimonials.

At present "Jimmy" is undecided where he will pursue his future studies but wherever the future leads you the well wishes of the class of 1935 go with you.

Now we come to the eulogy of Richard Wiesman, popularly known by his classmates as "Dick". During his stay within the portals of C. H. S., he made quite a name for himself as an athlete, being one of the outstanding players on the tennis team and also a star pitcher for his class team.

"Dick" considered walking a great form of exercise and he thought that air down by the river was good for his complexion. And so on certain nights of the week he could be seen walking across the bridge.

"Dick" always seemed to be able to get along with the teachers. His popularity with his classmates was proven when he was elected Treasurer of the French Club, and he handled this office with his customary efficiency and integrity.

"Dick's" future career is still in the hands of fate but whatever it may be and wherever it may take him, the best wishes of the class of 1935 go with him.

If a few years from today you hear a fog-horn blow and then see a round-the-world cruiser slip out of bay, don't be surprised if you learn that Richard Williamson is aboard, for "Where there's a will, there's a way" and Richard not only knows his U. S. History, but he certainly reads the newspapers and knows everything that goes on in foreign countries, So, no doubt, he would like to see all of these places of such interest to him; and who knows but he might even live up to his nick-name and become a "cap."

Yet the great enthusiasm he has shown in chemical and electrical experiments and his participation in last year's 100 yard dash show a more promising future.

Because of this versatility it can be partly understood why "Dick" says he is undecided as to his future, but the Senior Reception, and all of the tea dances have seemed to change "Dick" a great deal.

Good luck to you, "Dick," from your classmates of "35".

Lights!! Music!! And now folks, we come to Clinton High's talented musician, Paul Zeidel. Paul is one of the most popular boys in the class and was usually seen at the school socials "getting hot" on his sax.

Paul has one weakness and that is a tendency to blush and this weakness was slightly embarrassing to him, especially in E period.

Paul belonged to many of the clubs in the school and he was an active member of each. Although Paul did not participate in athletics he always came to the games and did his share by cheering the boys on the field.

In his Senior year he knocked at dramatic's door, was admitted, and did a neat job of acting.

Paul's straightforwardness and personality have won for him a host of friends in Clinton High School and we know that these same qualities will bring the same results wherever he goes. His ambition is to go to Harvard and always remember, Paul, that "35" extends its sincerest wishes for your success.

CLASS OF 1935 AS FRESHMEN

Memorabilia

With expectant, eager faces we joyously, if a little perplexedly, wander through the corridors and gradually become acquainted with both teachers and classmates.

At the very beginning of the year we are confronted with the task of preparing to take part in the St. Mihiel Day parade. Proudly we wear our red and silver and carry our banner.

Swiftly comes the time for the Mid-Year Examinations, and though we know little about them, we nevertheless feel a heavy responsibility in pulling through the exams successfully.

In the Inter-Class Competition Shows we are ably represented and succeeded in having 1935 engraved on the cup, a victory of no small importance.

As the time of graduation grows near, we wistfully watch the Seniors depart, and as we look back on our first year in Clinton High School, it is with a feeling of regret and expectancy that we take our leave.

CLASS OF 1935 AS SOPHOMORES

Sophomore

For the second year we enter the portals of C. H. S. but we are not puzzled at the maze of halls and stairs. It is with a knowing air that we direct the Freshmen to various rooms.

We have our first class meeting and choose the following officers: President, Stanley Long; Vice-president, Marie Cobb; Secretary, Mary Ball; Treasurer, John McGrail.

We conduct our first tea dance, successfully carry out our first attempt at a candy sale, and by this time we feel very experienced and grown-up.

Again comes the ordeal of the Mid-Year Exams, and even though we know what is to be faced, still we feel some apprehension as to the final outcome.

After the exams come the Inter-Class Dramatics competition and again we have the honor of winning over the upper classmen.

The time flies until we see another graduation looming eminent, and we are another year nearer to leaving Clinton High forever.

Junior

At the very beginning of the year we elect our class officers, and choose as our representatives these students: President, Stanley Long; Vice-president, Claire Salmon; Secretary, Frances Ryan; Treasurer, John McGrail.

We select our class rings and feel a certain special pride in wearing them.

We are fully acquainted with the form of studies and are more nonchalant about the list of testimonials credited to '35.

All too soon we realize that we must again prepare for the usual exams, and to our gratification find that our class is again at the very top.

For the third time the banners for the Easter show are carried off by '35, an event which very seldom has occurred, and an honor worthy of note.

Preparations are in progress for the all-important Junior Prom, and being our first formal dance, we are extremely excited over its success. The dainty, vari-colored evening frocks of the girls and the black and white of the boys lend charm and grace, and the prom is at length carried off beautifully.

Once more we take our leave but still are we looking forward, for it is next year we graduate.

Seniors! It is with a thrill of pride that we assume a new dignity proper for our exalted station.

This year we choose our officers thus: President, William Casey; Vice-president, Claire Salmon; Secretary, Frances Ryan; Treasurer, John McGrail.

We participate in every social affair, mixing gayety with studiousness, and getting the full enjoyment of our last year at Clinton High School.

The Mid-Year Exams come and go. We have no difficulty in attaining a very high rating as was proven by the testimonial list.

Our Senior Prom has the essence of maturity common to our role of upper classmen.

We carry off again the honors in the Dramatics, making the fourth year we have succeeded.

We begin preparations for graduation, and before it seems possible we receive our diplomas and for the last time in our High School career, we leave the halls. Sadly we think upon our departure, and we stow away hordes of beautiful memories to serve us in the years to come.

FRESHMAN INTER-CLASS PLAY
"D-298"

We proved our mettle by coming out next to the Seniors for honors in acting ability. This was a very creditable honor indeed for our first attempt at acting.

James Wiesman and John E. O'Malley succeed in getting most comically mixed up as the employer and office boy who are in league with each other but seem to be the only ones unaware of this fact.

Edna Hoban as May, the pert stenographer, knows the solution, but keeps it to herself, and Dorothy Russell as the old-fashioned office fixture who only succeeds in mixing up to a greater extent the affairs of the people in whom she is interested, prove to be actresses of decided ability, and it is not surprising that we came out second.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Billy	James Wiesman
May	Edna Hoban
Mrs. Pratt	Dorothy Russell
Mr. Ebbs	John E. O'Malley

SOPHOMORE INTER-CLASS PLAY
"Circumstances Alter Cases"

Our second attempt was much better than the first. So much better, in fact, that we were adjudged the winner of the cup. The director, Lewis S. Gordon, the splendid performance of the entire cast, and the selection of the play itself, all helped to bring this about.

The play was a light, gay comedy which had to do with the aversion to girls of a boy who was tied to his mother's apron strings, that is, until a certain girl came on the scene, and completely changed his mind and smoothed out circumstances for all concerned.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Eve Hamilton	Dorothy Russell
Dan Hamilton	James Wiesman
Betty Everett	Edna Hoban
Stephen Everett	James Telericho
Maggie	Helen McLaughlin

JUNIOR INTER-CLASS PLAY
"Rooms to Let"

By this time we were quite sure of ourselves. Our director, Lewis S. Gordon, tried something new—well, at least to us. It was the vocal rendition of "Let's Fall in Love," as sung by Edna Hoban and James Wiesman. It was well received by the audience.

The plot of the play revolved around Mrs. Smythe, a talkative landlady, and the general mixing up of the affairs of two young girls who wanted to rent the rooms left vacant by the departure of two college students.

John McGrail and Helen McLaughlin, who furnished the amusement for the audience, gave splendid performances.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Smythe	Helen Marcinczyk
Dick Rush	James Wiesman
Tom Warren	John E. O'Malley
Betty Breeze	Dorothy Russell
Madge Wales	Edna Hoban
Mathilda Judd	Helen McLaughlin
Jerry	John McGrail

SENIOR INTER-CLASS PLAY
"The Trysting Place"

The play delved into the private lives of the various people concerned, (to their horror), but the revelation of the secrets of each person turned out to be for their own good, and everything was straightened out when the curtain came down.

Due to the complete success of the song in the Junior Play, James Wiesman sang again the song, "The Words Are in My Heart," and it was received with a great deal of enthusiasm on the part of the audience.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Curtis	Dorothy Russell
Lancelot Briggs	James Wiesman
Mrs. Briggs	Helen Marcinczyk
Jessie	Edna Hoban
Rupert Smith	Vionald Brownell
Mr. Ingoldsby	Joseph Mason
"The Mysterious Voice"	John E. O'Malley

SENIOR PLAY—"ON THE GO"

Memorabilia

Senior Play

"On The Go"

A comedy in three acts, by J. C. McMullen. The characters were splendidly portrayed by the following:

Joseph Mason as Aaron Judkins, the proprietor of an Inn, was hilariously comical, and got a good many laughs from the audience.

Helen Marcinczyk as Maggie, hired maid, helped Joe to carry off the laughs, as his stooge.

James Kittredge as Bruce Barrett, a newlywed, finds true love never runs smooth.

Edna Hoban as Edna Barrett, Bruce's wife, did justice to the role of neglected spouse.

John McGrail as Buck Flynn, a rough and very jealous husband, gathered a lot of laughs from the audience with his tactics.

Elsie Grady as Mayme Flynn, Buck's wife, succeeds in making her already jealous husband even more so.

Dorothy Russell as Evaline Procter, Edna's mother, who follows her daughter on her honeymoon, gave a splendid performance when she met up with an old enemy, and started an ancient argument going strong.

John E. O'Malley as Julius Barrett, Bruce's father and Evaline Procter's life-long enemy, joins in the maelstrom of mix-ups when he finds his son married to the girl to whom he is very much opposed.

Paul Zeidel as Saz Forbes, a thief in disguise, keeps the audience in suspense.

Ruth Mills as Sylvia Kingston, poses as a guest and helps Sax rob the Inn.

Richard Walker as Sam Sampson, the lisping ingenue, was most convincing in his part.

Claire Salmon as Susie Devore, Sam's sweetheart, wins Sam in the end after posing as Lady Boggs-Henderson, and confusing the guests to their amusement and consternation.

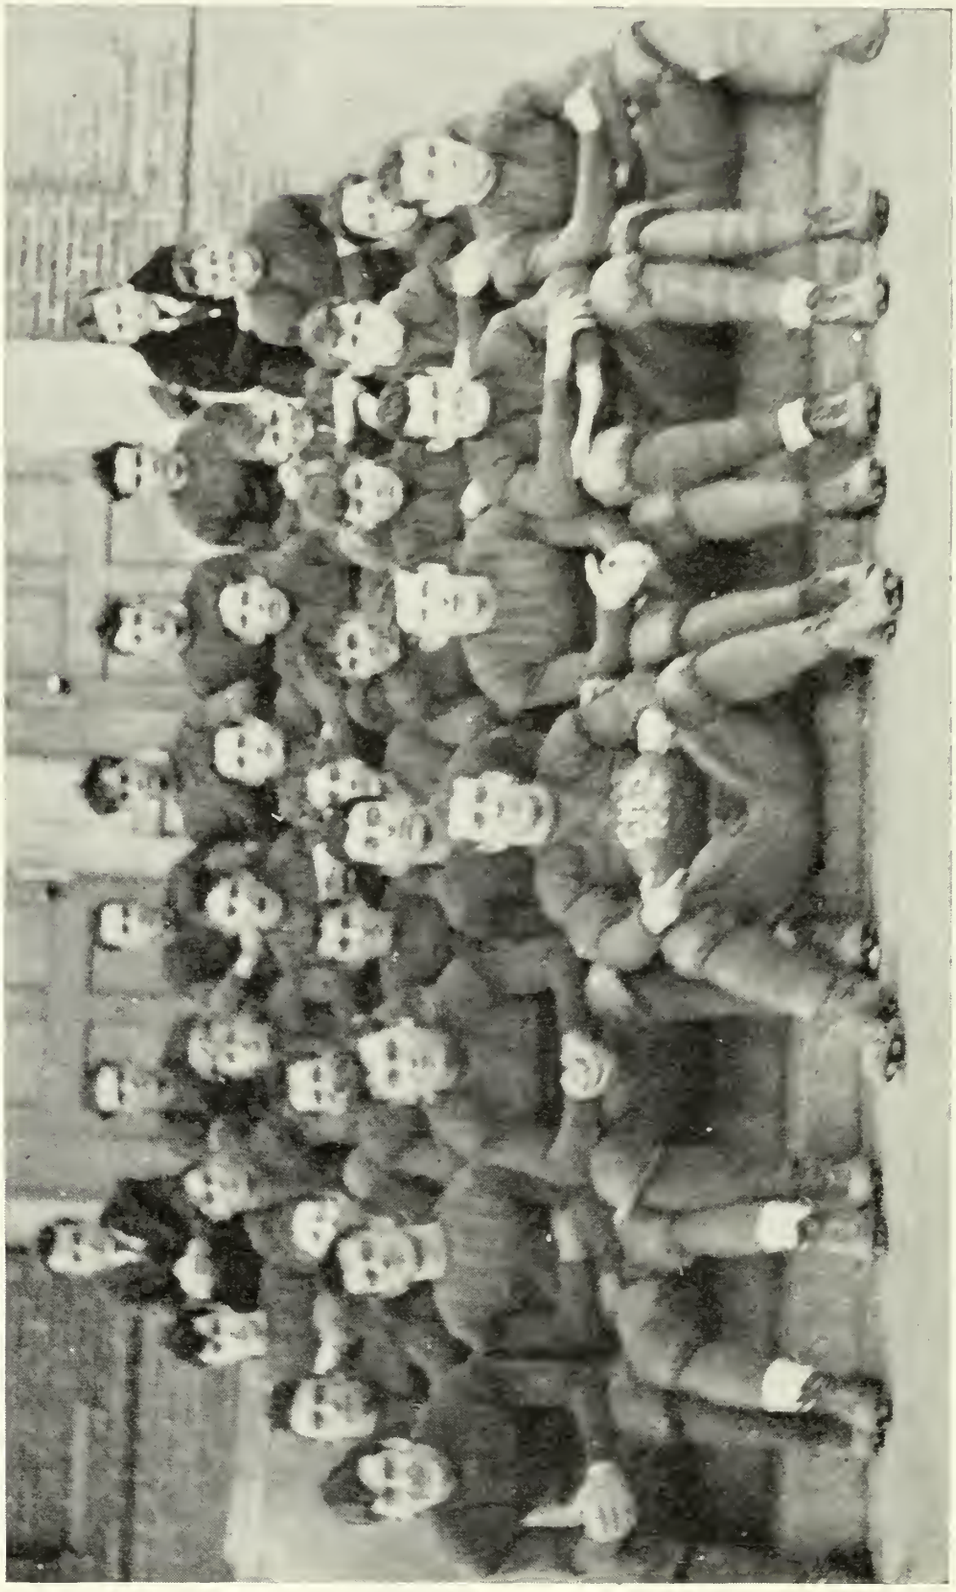
ATHLETICS

1935

Memorabilia



Football

The 1934 football season really started the previous Spring, for then it was that Clinton High had its first practice in what is termed "Spring training." The securing of about 40 uniforms by the Athletic Council made practice of this sort possible, and the training gave "Joe" and "Marty" an idea of what might be expected from the boys during the regular season.

Prospects looked fairly bright, for Clinton had what might be termed a veteran team since most of the boys had seen considerable service during the previous season. During the season, however, several injuries cropped up—"Johnny" Kulis left school, and scholastic difficulties of several of the "boys"—left gaps which were hard to fill with experienced, competent players.

Six losses against three victories does not, perhaps, look well on paper, but when the games are considered individually, the pupils in Clinton High can be proud of their gridiron warriors of the last season.

Clinton opened this season in Webster and gave wonderful promise of a great season. In defeating Webster on a muddy field, 13-0, the Item said in headlines: "Local lads exhibited a powerful running attack in a rugged game, limiting the hard-running Bartlett backs to two first downs."

Milford, after being rained out on Saturday, came here the following Monday, and were mighty lucky to defeat Clinton 19-6. We say this with no attempt at alibis, but it was the concensus of opinion after that game that Milford was not that much better than Clinton.

Probably our most disastrous defeat of the season was at the hands of Gardner on October 13. Maybe it was the fact that the game was played on the 13th. In the words of the Item, "Gardner was just too tough and good, that's all. Clinton, though it showed flashes of rugged power, was outclassed and went down before an attack which mixed up effective forward passing with hard slam-bang running." Gardner was by far the best team that Clinton played against last year, even though they were defeated later by Leominster.

Shrewsbury, on October 20, was supposed to be a breather, but the Clinton boys had a terrible let down and the final score—13-7—a victory for Clinton—was nothing but a gift from the gods. The way in which Clinton played that day was a revelation to the fans—and it should have been Shrewsbury's game.

Hudson and Clinton, in Hudson, on October 17, were evenly matched, and for three-quarters the battle was a ding-dong affair. It looked like a scoreless tie until a succession of breaks resulted in three touchdowns in the final quarter, all in the space of a few minutes. Of these Clinton garnered only one, and the final score was 13-6. It was a well played game by both teams and all scores were made on breaks.

Clinton played its best game of the season against Leominster on Doyle Field, and it's no secret that they had Leominster worried. The score at the half was tied at 6-6, and Leominster scored only once more in the third quarter. The superior value of Leominster replacements, however, combined with the hard fight for the three quarters by Clinton's boys, resulted in three more touchdowns in the last quarter for a victory for Leominster of 32-6. We have rarely seen a Clinton team put on such a vicious attack as they did in scoring their touchdown, following Pieklik's fine run.

Southbridge went through the season undefeated, and Clinton was defeated by them on November 10 in Southbridge. A couple of bad breaks in the beginning of the game proved Clnton's undoing, although for a time in the second quarter, Clinton proved vastly superior in all departments.

The Marlboro game on November 17, was a thriller. Clinton annexed that game 6-0, although Marlboro had everyone worried until the final whistle, because of their wild passing attack. They brought the ball down to Clinton's one yard line, with two minutes to play—but a fumble and subsequent recovery by Pasquale saved the day for Clinton.

The victory over Marlboro had the boys all steamed up, because of a chance for the Midland League title, but Maynard, on Thanksgiving Day, in Maynard, upset all hope, by setting back Clinton 25-0. With all due respect to Maynard, we still think that Clinton had the better team, as they took the ball down the field repeatedly. On three different occasions, however, after passes had clicked repeatedly, Maynard intercepted and ran the whole length of the field for touchdowns. It was a heart breaking game to lose, and to top it all two of our boys, Innamorati and Brownell, received broken collar bones.

The Class of 1935 was well represented on this team. The all Senior backfield of Casey, Pasquale, Pieklik, and Anastos proved a thorn in the sides of opposing lines. Casey's bullet passes, coupled with the hard running of Pasquale and Anastos, and the fine blocking of Pieklik were big factors in the team's success. The team had five Seniors in the forward wall, and these boys did their part in repulsing enemy attacks. Captain "Stan" Long's play was outstanding in every game.

Baseball started off this year in the wrong direction, in so far as victories were concerned—but taken all in all, the season did produce several promising prospects for next year. The members of this year's team have the unique record of throwing away of practically every game they lost, after gaining a substantial lead, in most cases. The boys accumulated a total error count that we doubt has ever been equaled in the country.

Because of this tendency to "boot" even the easiest chances, Coach McCaffrey shifted his line-up in practically every game in an effort to produce a nine which acted as if they had seen a ball game before. As a result, the errors in each game became less and less until at the end of the season it could be seen that a ball club was in the making.

The new uniforms, purchased by the athletic council, gave the boys a natty appearance on the field and were certainly needed, as the suits have been makeshift for many years. We look forward to having a good team in 1936, for many of the boys received a great deal of competitive training during this season.

Hockey

Inter-Class Hockey in C. H. S. for 1935 was very limited due to the inclement weather conditions cast upon us from above. However, what little ice there was, was used to the best of advantage, as the boys of '35, having a hockey craze second to none in school, donned their skates, pulled out a puck and started banging away.

Hudson seemed to have been our tireless destination. The boys, still smarting from their merciless defeat of a year ago, suffered at the hands of these same "bushers," went over there to avenge that defeat and square themselves in the eyes of the populace. Their best was not good enough in this case, sad to say. But before the game was over, the "Bushers" knew that they had been in a battle. It was just a case of an experienced team winning over an inexperienced team. The score was not as bad however so there was that much satisfaction. A 4-0 defeat may not read well, but the saying "Seeing Is Believing" proves that it was a game well worth watching.

Two other games, Senior-Sophomore, and Senior-Junior, resulted in victories for the upper classmen. Their record has been marred only twice, those being by Hudson.

History Circle

President—John Fuller Vice-President—Frances Ryan

Secretary—May Bridges Treasurer—Joseph Pasquale

When the Mid-Year Exams had become a thing of the past, the History Circle was formed. After the election of officers, it began to flourish. The members were entertained with debates, speeches, and mock trials, and were highly appreciative of the results of the work entailed by these entertainments.

These meetings were instructive as well as entertaining. The mock trials took place as a court trial should. The speeches were on the functions of government and the debates were for the benefit of all interested in city or town affairs.

Then, one fine day in June, most of the members of the History Circle started on their tour. They visited all the places of historical interest on the way to and from Boston, and in Boston itself. Best of all, we had an opportunity to meet the Governor of our state. The trip was very educational as well as beneficial.

Le Cercle Francais

President—James Kittredge Vice-President—Ruth Kerrigan
Secretary—Kathryn Carr Treasurer—Richard Wiesman

As Miss Kerrigan most emphatically assured us, this club was organized with a purpose in mind—the practice of conversational French. Now that it's over, most of us may not be able to carry on a fluent conversation in French, but we certainly had a wonderful time throughout the year in the French Club.

We had various socials which were highly successful, climaxed by the annual banquet, which in itself was worth any year's work in French.

So, in leaving '35, the French Club wishes to thank Miss Kerrigan for working so hard with us, and also any who contributed in any way to the success of our various enterprises.

Der Deutsche Verein

President—Joseph Dobeck
Vice-President—Frances Heinig
Secretary—Elinor Krauss
Treasurer—Ralph Schreiner

Although the membership in this club was small, the active part taken by the organization in town as well as in school affairs, was by no means bounded.

Our entertainments or socials held monthly were eagerly looked forward to by all. They consisted of an entertainment put on by the Senior and Junior Divisions alternately, a splendid talk by our faculty sponsor, Miss Comaskey, which always proved of great help and interest to the club members, and the final number on the program was always refreshments, of which nothing need be said.

The Club put on very fine entertainments for the Historical Society in the Holder Memorial, and for the Von Steuben Society in Turner Hall. These programs were enthusiastically received, and reflected credit, we feel sure, on our organization.

E. K. Club

President—Mary Benedetto Secretary—Josephine Harrity

Due to the urging of the Senior girls who felt they should know what to do when the Tau Sigma boys started practicing, the E. K. Club was formed.

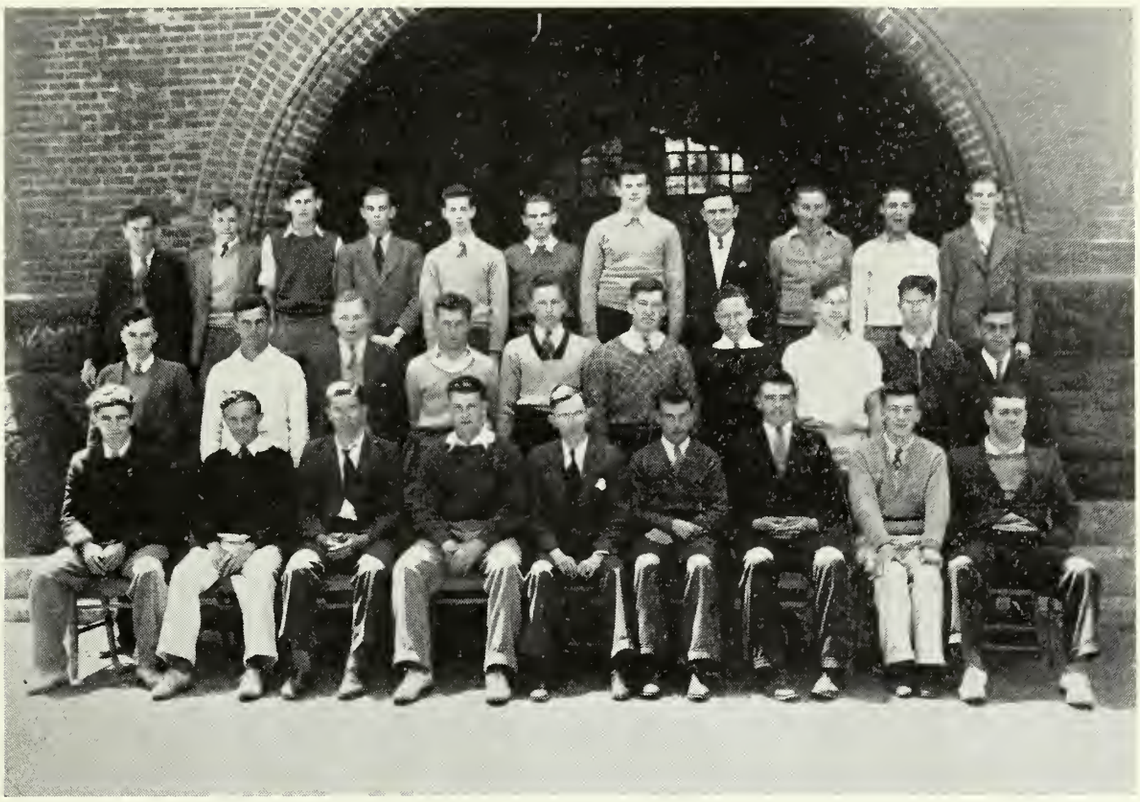
Miss Thompson willingly lent her knowledge to the girls and the club flourished rapidly under her helpful guidance.

There were many meetings during which we learned much of the intricacies of ethics. These meetings were enjoyable as well as beneficial, and it was with regrets that the club was brought to a close.

Photography Club

The Photography Club was again started this year under the direction of Mr. Dyer, and an attempt was made to initiate the members into the intricacies of picture taking, of developing the negatives, and of making the prints. Because of the difficulties in carrying out such a program with a large group, membership in this club was limited to Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, and the requirements for Scout Merit Badges were followed.

A hike was undertaken to the Dam with the entire group and pictures were taken to satisfy several of the requirements. Every member of the club then developed the negatives taken by them and later printed pictures from these negatives. While the results were, in most cases, not very good, with further practice at home any member of the club should be able to do their own developing and printing in the future.



Tau Sigma

The Tau Sigma, a club for Senior boys, was organized in December after the football season, under the direction of Lewis S. Gordon, Jr., of the faculty. The following officers were elected: Vionald Brownell, President; and Howard Kurtz, Secretary-Treasurer. The meetings consisted of discussions on social manners. The Club this year was the subject of a feature article in the Boston Sunday Globe. The members acted as ushers at the Lynskey Memorial Concert for the benefit of the Clinton Hospital, and won much favorable comment from the patrons.

Orchestra

As has been the custom for many years, with the exception of the year that the operetta "O Hara San" was presented, the orchestra has not been formed until late in the school year. This year, as usual, Miss Driscoll, upon issuing the call for orchestra members, received the responses of a variegated collection of would-be participants. Several of the candidates, however, possessed real talent, and around these few, the orchestra was built and practice was started for the annual presentation on graduation night.

On that occasion the musicians proved themselves capable of producing blended and harmonious melodies that were a credit both to themselves and to their instructor.

Cheer Leaders

We often think that pictures such as the above are really misleading, for the cheer leaders in truth, are never still. It requires a great deal of energy and bellowing and skill to fill this job with success, for it is a real job to try to unite all those who occupy the "grand stand" at Fuller's Field into an organized cheering section. "Unkie" Lowe, ably assisted by Rose Gioka and Elsie Grady, certainly had the pep and energy this past year, and it can be truthfully said that the cheering under their direction was as good as, if not better than other years. So—let's go, gang, in a locomotive for the cheer leaders—one! two! three!

Tune: "Neapolitan Nights" ..... Zamecnik

Words by Frances Angela Ryan

I.

Now comes the time we must bid sad adieu:
Parting is nigh.
Memories tender will live long years through;
Hopes are high.
Here as we lingered long,
Entered our hearts this song:

II.

Dear classmates, heed how she cared for us all,
Tenderly kind;
And in the years when the shadows will fall,
Still shall we find,
Thoughts to thee turn again,
Mingled with joy and pain:

Chorus

The days of gladness, free from all sadness,
With hours of happiness are hastening on;
Surely we're aiming, slowly we're gaining,
And we'll thrive, Thirty-five, when comes the dawn.
Forget thee never, remember ever,
We shall endeavor for Thirty-five;
And though we leave thee, long shall we keep thee,
Safe apart, in our hearts, dear Clinton High.

Jokes

Mr. Gordon: What was Samuel Johnson's vocation?
E. G.: He got married.
Mr. Gordon: Well, that more an avocation than a vocation.

Mr. Dyer: If you were standing at the North Pole and took a step, in what direction would you go?
Alexander: South.
Mr. Dyer: Why?
Alexander: It's warmer down there.

Answer on one bright senior's U. S. History paper: One of the rights given in the American Bill of Rights was the right to Bare arms.

Mr. Dyer, when the "Tribute to the Faculty" was passed in: But don't you think it's too flowery?
Miss R.: Why no; we might as well pass them bouquets now that we're getting out.

Memory Passage for Tomorrow

Don't study when you're weary or have anything else to do;
Don't study when you're happy, for that would make you blue;
Don't study in the daytime and don't study in the night,
But study all the other times with all your main and might.
